Major Quake Hits Alaska Peninsula

An earthquake shock of "major intensity" was registered here at 3:33 a.m. today on the seismograph at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

It brought to 20 the number of severe shocks which have originated in the Aleutian Islands and Alaska in the past month. This one is believed centred on the Alaska Peninsula.

There were many other minor earth tremors.

On the Richter scale which registers earthquake intensity, the 3.33 "shake" was between 6½ to 7. An earthquake registering 8 is severe.

NOT FELT HERE

The earthquake was not felt in Victoria.

But it was of sufficient structure to be picked up on seismographs all over the world, the Canadian Press said.

The way "shakes" travel, it was between three and four minutes before it registered here; to be noted in South Africa would take about 20 minutes.

Last month a tidal wave resulted from one of the quakes, which hit the Hawaiian Islands.

The latest quake recorded for three and one-half hours.

'A BIT THICK'

Scurrah Rocked By Nanaimo Bid for Grant

Nanaimo Tourist and Publicity Bureau staggered Mayor Percy Scurrah today with a request for a $1,500 operational grant from the city of Victoria.

"That is a bit thick," commented the mayor.

The bureau wrote that it directs 60 per cent of incoming tourists to Victoria, and also hands out Victoria tourist publicity.

Alberni, Port Alberni and Campbell River contribute to the Nanaimo Bureau. It felt Victoria should contribute 10 per cent of its annual budget.

"We've been handling the up-island publicity for 40 years and we've never asked them for a grant," added Mayor Scurrah.

The letter goes before council Thursday.

Canada Sends Strong Note To U.S. Over Norman Case

U.S. Gov't Disclaims Norman 'Red' Charges

WASHINGTON (CP)—The Eisenhower administration today formally disclaimed the U.S. Senate internal subcommittee for airing charges of Communist ties made against Canadian diplomat E. Herbert Norman.

It did so in a note handed today to Canadian Ambassador Arnold Heeney. The state department made the note public.

The note, signed by Acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, said the U.S. government "deplores any development from any source either American or Canadian which might adversely affect" traditional friendship of the two countries.

President Eisenhower had taken a similar line at his press conference a few hours earlier. He said he hopes the controversy can be dropped and the fine, firm character of relations with Canada restored.

Herter said in the note to Canada:

"I wish to assure you that any derogatory information developed during hearings of the subcommittee was introduced into the record by the subcommittee on its own responsibility."

The state department also made public the text of the formal Canadian protest made March 18 about publication of the accusations.

This note denounced "irresponsible allegations" and made what it called a "protest in the strongest terms."

ESPLANADE FOR WILLOWS

Mount Tolmie Development Gets Go-Ahead

The provincial government has approved three new projects in the Greater Victoria area recommended by the Capital Improvement District Commission.

Total expenditure is estimated at $185,000, including a further $60,000 for further improvements to the Dallas Road waterfront.

The new projects:

Development of a lookout and parking facilities and improvement of road access at the summit of Mount Tolmie ($30,000);

Extension of Superior Street through the northern end of Beacon Hill Park to Heywood Avenue ($50,000); and,

Construction of an esplanade along Willows Beach in Oak Bay ($45,000).

Announcement was made today by R. A. Pennington, chairman of the commission, which met Tuesday.

OFFICIALS HAPPY

It was hailed by civic officials. Detailed estimates and surveys now are being pushed ahead by the municipalities concerned, and work is scheduled to get underway soon.

All projects are expected to be completed by the end of the year.

Full cost of the work will be paid for by the Commission out of its $250,000 budget for 1957.

"We were very pleased with the results of the CIDC meeting," said Mayor Percy Scurrah. He is a member of the commission.

ESSENTIAL

"It will enable us to complete work started last year and to construct the park access road, which to my mind is an essential piece of work. I am pleased to see the Mount Tolmie project starting also."

City engineer James C. Garnett said no time would be lost in returning to the work started in 1956.

"Crews are moving in on the Dallas - Douglas intersection Thursday. Friday morning they will start on the Dallas project between Cook and Douglas."

New parking bays, new curbs and gutters and resurfacing constitutes the work here.

"Surveying is now underway for the new road across Beacon Hill Park," the engineer added.

HOUSES TO GO

It's completion, one of the main recommendations of the Faustman traffic report, will mean removal of two private dwellings. One fronts on Heywood and the other on Vancouver and they are back to back.

Once their removal is negotiated the new road will run from the east end of Superior, winding southeasterly through an undeveloped fringe of the park to join with Heywood at a point where a park road intersects. Heywood will then be joined with a short extension of Southgate, which is the section now blocked by the two homes.

Mr. Garnett felt final paving might be finished this fall.

He estimated its completion will take 30 per cent of the government employee traffic off Douglas and Government and allow free access to the Buildings for persons living east of Cook Street.

The Dallas Road projects will complete a beautification job started two years ago under jurisdiction of the now-defunct Capital City Beautification Grant Committee. Last year, the first and only grant by the CIDC was $75,000 toward the same project.

SOVIET SUB STRENGTH SEVEN TIMES HITLER'S

OTTAWA (BUP)—The government warned today that Russia is concentrating on a major naval buildup and already has seven times as many submarines as Hitler at the start of the Second World War.

The report was contained in Defence Minister Ralph Campney's annual "green book" on defence, tabled in parliament.

Homing Air-to-Water Missile For RCAF, RCN This Year

(See also page 3)

OTTAWA (CP)—The navy and the RCAF this year will obtain a new air-to-water homing torpedo to meet the Russian submarine threat.

A report on national defence, tabled today in the Commons, repeatedly stresses that Canada must be able to defend itself against atomic missiles launched from submarines lying off its coasts.

So often is this subject referred to in the 60-page report, tabled by Defence Minister Campney, that it overshadows what has been the main theme for years of such annual reports—the air defence of Canada.

The new torpedo will be capable of being dropped from a navy or RCAF plane and homing on a submarine on or below the surface. The torpedo, in fact, is a guided missile.

The report—it would be called a white paper on defence except that it has a green cover—says in an opening discussion on policy:

"Soviet concentration on the buildup of a large submarine fleet and the prospect of long-range submarines with a capability of launching atomic missiles from several hundred miles off shore has given an increased significance to the anti-submarine role of the maritime forces of NATO countries as a further essential element of the war deterrent.

"In this connection Canada is one of the principal countries providing maritime forces for the Supreme Allied Commander, Atlantic. The primary role of the Royal Canadian Navy has for some years been anti-submarine warfare in all its aspects."

"The latest appraisals of the threat at sea have resulted in a new emphasis by the RCN and the RCAF's maritime command on the development of forward operational systems and new techniques for locating and dealing with hostile submarines well away from our shores."

Steps Taken to Meet Menace

The report lists some of the steps taken to counteract this menace:

1. A four-year program to modernize radar equipment in major RCN ships is nearing completion but research must be continued in this field.
2. Production will be started "in the near future" in Canada of the new air-to-water homing torpedo.
3. The RCAF's new maritime patrol aircraft, the Argus, will begin flying operations this fiscal year.
4. An air navigation and tactical control system known as ANTAC, a unique Canadian development, has been tested and adapted for installation in the Argus.
5. The new aircraft carrier Bonaventure soon will join the Atlantic fleet at Halifax.
6. Deliveries of the Tracker, the navy's new anti-submarine aircraft, began in the latter part of 1956.
7. Successful experiments have been carried out in flying sub-spotting helicopters from a platform on a frigate.

On nuclear weapons, the report says the defence department has not tried to carry out original research in this field though close attention is given to such developments in Allied countries.

For the first time, the strength of the Canadian Rangers is revealed. At the end of last year, this shadowy band of trackers and woodsmen in remote areas of Canada numbered 2,725.

Protests Misuse Of Security Data, Asks Safeguards

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

OTTAWA—Canada today warned the United States it may refuse to supply the U.S. with security information on Canadian citizens unless those citizens are protected from unproved public charges.

External Affairs Minister Pearson said in the Commons that Arnold Heeney, Canadian ambassador to Washington, today handed a note to the U.S. state department which said:

"In view of the conduct of congressional investigations affecting Canadians, and because of its responsibility for taking every precaution in its power to protect Canadian citizens, the Canadian government requests that, in the reciprocal exchange of security information, the United States government give its assurance that none of its agencies or departments will pass such information to any committee, body or organization in the U.S. over which the executive branch of the U.S. government has no executive control, without the express consent of the Canadian government in each case . . ."

Definite Assurances Required

"Unless such an assurance can be given . . . the Canadian government must reserve the right in future not to supply security information concerning Canadian citizens to any U.S. government agency."

The Canadian action stems from the suicide in Cairo last week of Herbert Norman, Canadian ambassador to Egypt, against whom the U.S. senate internal security subcommittee recently revived old allegations of past Communist associations.

The note said Canada has more than once complained of methods employed by the subcommittee in releasing names of Canadians.

The names of Canadian officials should be sent in confidence to the Canadian government so that Canada could deal with the allegations.

Mr. Pearson said it was "intolerable" that an agency of a foreign government intervene in Canadian affairs in such a way to harass a Canadian citizen.

Mr. Pearson said he hoped it would not be necessary for Canada to exercise its right not to supply security information.

"I realize that nothing we could have done would have prevented the action taken against Mr. Norman by the United States senate subcommittee because the information which they gave out, covering allegations going back years and dealt with by this government years ago, was secured from other than Canadian sources," Pearson said.

"Nevertheless," he added, "this experience has emphasized that we should now take steps to ensure that information received from us on these matters could not possibly be used for wrong purposes against Canadians in the future."

"As the United States government knows, the Canadian government

Many Problems Lie Ahead For Seaway Administrators

Many uncertainties must be cleared before the St. Lawrence seaway opens its locks to the world 24 months from now.

A "pay-as-you-go" operation, the international waterway must charge tolls to write off its cost in 50 years. But what the charges will be—or, for that matter, how they will be levied—is still being negotiated by Canadian and United States toll committees.

Seaway Cost To U.S. Jumps

Congress Asked to Boost Borrowing to $140 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress was told Tuesday that "almost overnight" the cost of the U.S. portion of the St. Lawrence seaway jumped from $87,000,000 to $133,000,000.

SEAWAY

Other major problems include mounting construction costs, the size of ships to be permitted to use the seaway, the question of bridge tolls, and harbor facilities at inland ports.

The future of Canada's St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, said to be in the air. Political observers mention him for a cabinet post and say he may seek election in a Quebec constituency.

BILLION-DOLLAR SCHEME

The seaway and its affiliated power development in the International Rapids section west of Cornwall, Ont., now is expected to cost about $1,000,000,000. The authority's share, estimated four years ago at an outside $300,000,000, may climb to $330,000,000 before the project is completed. Its American counterpart, St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp., is said to need another $33,000,000 on top of an already approved $105,000,000.

At Cornwall, the New York state power authority and Ontario Hydro share the estimated $600,000,000 cost of building a 2,200,000-horse-power generating complex.

The inflated estimates complicate toll planning. But the issue is even more snarled by differing views held by Canada and the United States. Further discussions on the problems began in Washington last month.

Canada is said to want low tolls so that foreign shipping will find profitable the seaway route into the Great Lakes. Foreign ships will earn dollars for their countries, which in turn could be spent on Canadian goods. The Americans, with the Great Lakes-Europe route subsidized, are said to prefer higher tolls to protect their shipping.

If a compromise is not reached, there could be two separate toll systems — a low rate through Canadian locks and a higher one through American locks.

USE BIG FACTOR

Tied to the 50-year limit on amortizing costs, the toll structure will depend largely on how much shipping uses the seaway. Estimates range around 30,000,000 tons a year during first year of operation. By 1965, it is expected to equal if not exceed that of the Panama Canal, now nearing 40,000,000 tons a year.

Tolls could be levied on tonnage, or commodities, or both. They could be a flat amount, or scaled to how far a ship sails up the seaway route. Largely unsettled, these issues leave room for further differences between the two countries.

The danger is that the St. Lawrence system may price itself out of the shipping market, as did the Panama Canal until increased traffic brought cheaper tolls.

Tolls will directly affect such bulk tonnage as prairie grain and Labrador iron ore — two major commodities expected to use the seaway. World shipping interests, already sending small vessels into the Great Lakes in increasing numbers, also await word on tolls and ship dimensions.

PROJECTS

IMPROVE PARKS

City parks administrator Herbert Warren welcomed the planned new road across Beacon Hill Park.

"I think it will improve the park. I've been hoping it would come for 20 years."

He felt the new road eventually would be the main access to the park and would be joined by one of the roads now threading the park.

Reeve Fred Norris said he was pleased with the announcement on the Willows Beach esplanade.

"It would have been a long time before the municipality could have done it," he said.

Plans submitted to the Commission by the municipality had included improvements to Willows Park, but the government apparently feels parks should be the responsibility of local governments, Mr. Norris said.

The esplanade will run in front of the park along the waterfront.

CONCRETE WALL

The project involves construction of a concrete retaining wall above the beach, ornamental lighting, and parking bays.

Municipal engineers will begin laying out grades for the roadway soon, Reeve Norris said.

Reeve Arthur Ash of Saanich and Max Zabel of the Chamber of Commerce welcomed the go-ahead signal for development of Mount Tolmie.

Mr. Zabel has been working on the project for the past two years.

"This is wonderful news," he said. "We didn't know where the money was coming from when we started."

Plans have been drawn up by architects Clark-Clyton Pickstone.

They include construction of a viewpoint ramp, 30-car parking lot, landscaping, black-topping and widening of access roads.

Saanich municipal workers have already started levelling ground for the parking lot.

Under the financing arrangement, the work is undertaken by the municipalities which turn the bills over to the commission.

Russ Embassy Housewarming Falls Short of Social Triumph

OTTAWA (CP) — The big, new Russian Embassy, a square chunk of limestone at the edge of the Rideau River, goes into a life of routine today after a gay housewarming in which it was toasted in gallons of vodka, champagne and other spirits.

About 600 guests, including Trade Minister Howe and Mr. Justice Abbot of the Supreme Court of Canada, turned up Tuesday night to help Soviet Ambassador Dmitri Chuvahin warm up the rather forbidding new structure erected on the ashes of one destroyed by fire 16 months ago.

And while the ambassador appeared extremely pleased with the turnout, the affair seemed to fall short of being one of the big social whirls of the season.

FRIENDSHIP BID

Ghosts of the Hungarian revolt and the Russian bloodshed in Budapest seemed to be about. There was only one cabinet minister present. Prime Minister St. Laurent sent Mr. Chuvahin what was reported as a warm personal letter of congratulations on the new building but the prime minister did not turn up.

Of the Big Three—United States, Britain and France—only the French ambassador, Francis Lacoste, showed up. Russians were everywhere. While the women entertained guests with Russian songs and dances, the men moved about in what seemed to be a new Soviet friendship march designed to win more Canadian good will.

One Russian official told a reporter later to feel free to come to the embassy and make himself at home at any time. The embassy was to be wide open, although the front doors were constantly locked and controlled by an electric buzzer. An attendant was located in a glass cage to one side with a complete view of all those admitted.

ernment finds the procedures actually adopted by the subcommittee with respect to Canadians difficult to understand, unfair and indeed intolerable," Mr. Pearson said.

"The Canadian government therefore requests again that these procedures be altered insofar as Canadians are concerned along the lines indicated above."

The note said the Canadian government had "a duty to protect Canadian citizens by all means legally at its disposal from unwarranted interference by any foreign government."

It added: "There is little that the Canadian government can do, however, to make this protection effective for those Canadian citizens, whose names are made public by congressional committees, unless it is able to secure the co-operation of the United States government."

"The United States government is aware that the appropriate security agencies of the two governments have in the past exchanged security information on a reciprocal basis when such information formed part of an investigation important to the security of either country."

PRECAUTIONS

"This reciprocal exchange of information has assisted substantially in maintaining the security of our two countries, and the Canadian government is not suggesting that it has been improperly used by the security agencies in the United States with which this exchange takes place."

"Nevertheless the Canadian government must take every precaution which lies within its power to protect Canadian citizens from the danger of this information falling into the hands of persons who might use it without any sense of responsibility or fairness, or regard for the rights of Canadian citizens, within the jurisdiction of Canada."

"The Canadian government for its part assures the United States government that any security information on United States citizens supplied by United States agencies to the security agency of the Canadian government, will be given similar protection in Canada to that requested with respect to security information about Canadians from the United States government."

Ontario Beauty Could Be Honey To Lure Sasquatch from Hiding

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS (CP)—A young lady, unmarried too, is interested in British Columbia's proposed Sasquatch hunt.

The legendary giants are supposed to inhabit the mountains around this resort area, 80 miles northeast of Vancouver. A young Swiss mountaineer, convinced of the creatures' existence, wants to lead a hunt as part of B.C.'s centennial celebrations next year.

The Harrison Hot Springs centennial committee decided Tuesday night to file formal application for the search with provincial authorities.

And they also considered a letter from Peggy Sloan, 21, of Virginiatown, Ont., 22 miles east of Kirkland Lake near the Quebec border.

Miss Sloan wrote that she is "fascinated" by what she's read in the papers so far about the Sasquatch and wants to hear more from Rene Dahinden, 26, who proposes the search.

Paul Trout, a member of the Harrison committee, commented:

"It's pretty rugged country where the hunt will be taking place, but maybe if there was a girl in the party the Sasquatch might be more likely to come out of hiding."

Mobility, New Methods Key To Defence Plans

Emphasis on Anti-Sub Weapons; New Type Air Transport for Army

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Changing concepts of national defence in the shadow of the hydrogen and atomic bombs are reflected in the defence department "green paper" report to parliament today in which stress is laid on the need for new techniques for defence against atomic missiles as well as greater mobility for the army.

Canada must be able to defend itself against atomic missiles launched from submarines lurking offshore. Consequently there is emphasis upon new anti-submarine weapons that have been developed or are being developed such as the new St. Laurent class of destroyers and air-to-water homing torpedoes.

"FLYING TRUCK"

A huge new type of troop transport aircraft known as the "Flying Truck" designed to make Canada's army more mobile is in the production stage at a Toronto aircraft plant. The twin-engine cargo aircraft is intended to replace division and corps supply vehicles adding to the operational flexibility of ground forces under the changing conditions of modern warfare. It will be ready for use in 1959.

In the guided missile field senior defence research board and service officers have been conducting intensive studies often in conjunction with defence authorities of allied nations. Recently RCAF and United States air defence officials carried out top-level strategic appraisals of the operating implications of certain types of guided missiles.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

The Canadian army is concentrating its attention on new types of ground-to-ground and ground-to-air missiles, both guided and aimed, to ascertain which types may be suitable for meeting Canada's needs. Mr. Campney reported in the defence paper.

Other new developments:

(1)—The new Canadian supersonic, long-range, all-weather delta wing fighter the CF-105 has been developed to the point that its airframe powered with a Pratt and Whitney J-75 engine will be able to make its first flight this year.

(2)—The new high thrust jet engine the Orenda "Iroquois" for use in the CF-105 has advanced to the stage where it has been installed in a flying test bed, an American B-47 jet bomber aircraft on loan.

(3)—The Royal Canadian Navy and Royal Canadian Air Force have worked together on the development of a new air-to-water homing torpedo, based on a U.S. type. Production will be started on these torpedoes in Canada soon.

AIR 'SUPERHIGHWAYS' PROPOSED FOR U.S.

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower plans to send Congress a broad air-safety program including a proposal to create aerial "superhighways."

The blueprint, drawn up by the president's aviation facilities planning group, would provide for:

1. Creation of a powerful independent airways modernization board charged with co-ordinating all research in the field of air safety.

2. Drastic revision of present air traffic rules to eliminate the increasing collision menace.

3. An aerial "superhighway" network with certain routes reserved for planes of similar speeds.

Edward P. Curtis, chairman of the planning group and vice-president of Eastman Kodak, gave Eisenhower and Republican legislative leaders a preview of the plan at the White House. Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) said afterward it probably would be sent to Congress Thursday.

(5)—Plans have been made to start production of a new series of 15-mile radio sets for use by armor and artillery and new standard five-mile sets for the artillery.

(6)—Projects for improving version of the Canadian weapon.

Commons Asked to Probe Pre-Trial Aspects of Adam's Murder Trial

LONDON (CP)—The prosecution's case against the 38-year-old physician John Bodkin Adams, Eastbourne doctor acquitted Tuesday of a murder charge, will be raised in the House of Commons.

Labor member George Wigg has tabled a question asking the government to set up an impartial inquiry into the preparation, organization and conduct of the prosecution's case—"excepting the proceedings in court."

His question is addressed to the attorney-general, Sir Reginald Manningham-Buller, who led the prosecution's case against the 38-year-old physician.

Dr. Adams was found not guilty of murdering his wealthy patient, 81-year-old Mrs. Edith Morrell.

Wigg did not elaborate on what prompted his demand for an investigation into the pre-trial aspects of the case. During the trial defence counsel criticized the methods used by Scotland Yard's ace detective, Herbert "The Count" Hannam. The judge defended the famed sleuth, however, in his charge to the jury.

Hannam arrested Dr. Adams last December after months of investigating scores of wills in Eastbourne.

The British Budget

MR. THORNEYCROFT'S BUDGET will disappoint many of Britain's people who had expected a pretty drastic reduction in taxes. The taxpayers are relieved of only $280 millions—a gesture of relief but not much more.

Even this limited measure represents a calculated gamble since Britain is suffering a serious inflation, lately stimulated by further wage increases. The Government apparently believes, however, that a nation restive after many years of restraint and bitterly disappointed by events abroad requires the stimulant of hope. A minor cut in taxes may have that psychological effect; it cannot have much direct economic effect.

On the other hand, if the British people now feel that they have passed their worst difficulties, are encouraged to work harder and produce more, the budget's indirect effects could be important.

The Government seems to be counting heavily on this kind of encouragement; for in a strictly mathematical sense the budget could not be justified at a time of inflation. It will only add to the inflationary pressure if it does not result in an increased output of goods since it promotes the demand for goods within Britain.

There is another and much larger factor in the Government's calculations. It is systematically reducing Britain's defence expenditures, concentrating on nuclear weapons and hoping to save, during the next year or two, sums much larger than the present tax cuts.

These calculations necessarily are made in figures but can be understood only in physical terms. Britain hopes to use more of its manpower and materials in the manufacture of goods to be consumed at home or exported abroad. Economy in defence is a powerful weapon against inflation.

The defence cuts and the budget reveal pretty plainly the mind of the new Prime Minister. Mr. Macmillan evidently believes, much more strongly than his predecessor, that Britain's power in the world must be built on a stronger economic foundation, that the foundation has been sapped by excessive military expenditure and that the people must be relieved from some of their present tax burdens if the nation's energies are to be galvanized.

The budget provides a first installment of this policy, though it falls far short of that "dash for freedom" which some of the impatient young Conservative politicians have long advocated. Other installments of the same sort may be expected to follow later on.

In the meantime events will show whether the budget merely stimulates inflationary pressure or decreases it by stimulating production. Everything will depend on the attitude of a people who have long suffered and now see a small ray of hope.

Centennial Project

THE RECORD OF THOSE charged with deciding on a centennial project for Greater Victoria so far adds up to nothing more than pathetic bumbling.

No agreement has been reached on a common project, and without a change in the thinking processes of some of the individuals concerned none is likely to be. The fact is that while some members of the committee are seeking an idea for a major work that will celebrate British Columbia's one-hundredth anniversary, others are merely trying to divert the centennial grant into a routine expenditure.

The proposal for a hospital wing to commemorate the centenary falls in the latter category. The wing is needed, beyond doubt, but it stands on its own merits, it has no historical significance and will be built in due course anyway.

The city and municipalities would "save" about $150,000 by adopting this proposal, but they would in effect be abandoning the idea of a centennial project by converting centennial funds to its construction.

The centennial project should be something unique, something useful, something that would commemorate the occasion of our one-hundredth birthday. Many excellent suggestions have been made, with little imaginative response from officialdom.

To bring the matter to a head and concentrate attention on a project which embraces the three requirements already noted, as well as one which already has been accorded a generous measure of public support, The Daily Times urges that a civic auditorium for Greater Victoria be chosen as the centennial project.

An auditorium is an obvious need for the community, not only for the use of residents but also for visitors. There is at present no comparable and adequate accommodation for conventions, meetings, musical events and other public gatherings. An auditorium, with the necessary adjuncts and facilities to meet all requirements, would be a lasting asset to the community, an attraction for the many organizations seeking convention space, and if properly designed, a worthy memorial to our century of history.

Let's make the centennial grant an event rather than a convenience, and build a structure of which we can be proud.

Amicable Progress at Singapore

ONCE AGAIN BRITAIN HAS concluded satisfactory negotiations with a former colony to give it domestic self-government.

Such is the outcome of discussions in London where Lim Yew Hock, Chinese chief minister of Singapore has reached accord with British spokesmen on the status of "the city with an island under it" at the foot of the Malay peninsula.

Concessions have been made on both sides. While Singapore will be mistress in its own house domestically, the little island will still depend on Britain for external defence and management of external affairs.

This is a happy conclusion of negotiations which bristled with difficulties a year ago. On the occasion of earlier talks Singaporeans spoke of the "insufferable frustration of a subject people." Last month they demonstrated the degree to which they have outgrown such catchphrases.

An unusual diplomatic maturity has come to them since the elections of 1955—a maturity increased by their effective check of rioting and communist infiltration. They are in a position now to effect compromises of benefit to themselves and to Britain.

The latter cannot afford to pull out entirely from the former bastion established by Sir Thomas Stamford Raffles in 1819. The location there of Far Eastern headquarters for the Royal Navy, the British Army and the Royal Air Force makes Singapore too strategically important to be abandoned.

At the same time, the presence of those forces furnishes Singapore with a defensive strength which the island itself could not support.

These are points appreciated on both sides—and that understanding has led to the new partnership which gives Singapore its advance in autonomy.

Candied Dates for America

ON THIS COAST BRITISH Columbia prepares for its centenary next year. On the Atlantic coast, and a little south, the people of New England are preparing to welcome the Mayflower II, replica of the vessel which brought the Pilgrims from Plymouth, England, in 1620.

At Jamestown, festivities have already started marking the arrival there of models of the Susan Constant, Godspeed and Discovery, which carried early settlers across the Atlantic in 1607.

South-south-east, the people of the Dominican Republic have announced plans to greet exact reproductions of the Pinta, the Nina and Santa Maria, under the Duke of Veragua, direct descendant of Columbus, when they arrive from Palos, Spain, in October.

Throughout this hemisphere emphasis will be placed on the intrepid early settlers.

Variations of the proud boast of ancestors who came over in the Mayflower may be expected, and the claims to fame will inevitably invite "toppers."

Do the Susan Constant descendants consider Mawflowrites as Johnny-come-latelies? And if so, how do they stand with the Pinta, the Nina and Santa Maria people?

A little mischievously, we'd like a delegation from all three to ask Mungo Martin how his forebears came to America. We'd enjoy anticipating the answer: "Walked over Behring land bridge, you know."

WORDS OF JOY

By B. A. TOBIN

Products and Prosody

THIS is, by all accounts, an age of gross commercialism, of money grubbing, of mechanical techniques, of absorption in material progress. Gone are the years of poetic fancy, of the artistic approach to life and living. Forgotten are the aesthetic pursuits; lost the days when country byways were named Lovers' Lane or Philosopher's Walk. Ours, some complain and other boast, is an era of straight thinking, scientific approach, industrial might and no nonsense. We have the biggest this, and the best that, the tallest of these and the strongest of those. The criterion of everything new is whether it works, and whether it works faster than the old.

In short, says the modern man or woman, keep the gears spinning, the valves jiggling, the furnaces roaring and the products tumbling out. That's life enough for us in the twentieth century. What more could man desire?

But is this a true picture of our era? Are we all mechanics, engineers, electronic robots? Perhaps it is the onset of spring, perhaps merely the onset of a new year's advertising budgets, but there is a enough evidence available to cast serious doubt on the cog-and-gear view of contemporary man.

There is reason to believe, indeed, that behind the modern chromium panel, behind the plastic front of our times, beats a heart just as romantic, just as worshipful of beauty as in past ages.

New Topics

The hum of vacuum tubes, the whirring click of gadgetry may drown it out, but that heart beats just as truly as ever before.

It doesn't beat about the same things, perhaps, but it beats. In an earlier day the poet wrote odes to his lady's eyebrow. He penned rhapsodies of praise of the turn of her ankle, the tilt of her head, the glance of her eye or the fragrance of her tresses. He wrote of birds on the wing, the lowing of cattle, the scent of the breeze, and the peace of the meadow. He wrote of billowing sails, of waterfalls, of heroism and of undying love.

These were the things that seemed important to the poet of those days and on them he expended his most impassioned phrases. But because these things are ignored today is no reason to infer that poetry is dead. We have not lost the art, we have merely changed the objects of our regard.

This point may have been overlooked in the rush of events. But we exhibit no less poetic affection for the big interests of our life than did the poet of old.

old for the objects of his veneration. In fact we far outdo him.

A glance through any popular publication will prove this to be true. What verbal artistry, what polished phraseology of the poet of yesterday can compare with the output of the poets of today? The fact that our poets are engaged exclusively in selling manufactured products should detract not a whit from our admiration for their work.

Many a poet of olden days acclaimed the horse and buggy and expended his best efforts in describing them. But who of that outmoded crowd could have come up with a name such as "Starfire 98" to describe a mere vehicle? Who of them could have coined such phrases as "Rocket T-400" and "Jetaway Hydramatic" to describe their motive power? Who of them, even in describing such an object of affection as ballbearings, could have burst out with the challenging line: "This is betterness."

Or who again, engrossed in zephyrs, breaths and breezes, could have produced, in the simplicity of greatness, the name "Vornado" for an air conditioner?

Which of the old-time poets, aching to enshrine his love in the deathless grandeur of our language, could have come up with "Turnpike Cruiser"?

100% Sincere

Do not misunderstand me; the old-time poets were good, in their way. But they could never have held their own with the word artists of today. Man's most profound emotions have always been the source of his highest artistic efforts, and for our generation the machine provides that incentive.

Our love for the machine bubbles forth in paens of joy and admiration, it inspires us, etherealizes us, and sends us to our white plastic towers in a frenzy of creative passion. Only so deep an emotion could have evoked the rich response we see on every hand today.

One aesthete has immortalized a motorboat as "Styler for fun—powered to go." What more descriptive phrase could be applied to our whole era? Poets of today, we salute you.

COST OF EDUCATION

Cost of primary and secondary education in British Columbia is higher than anywhere else in Canada, according to figures produced by R. R. Knight, MP for Saskatchewan. Mr. Knight's figures show that costs in B.C. are $292.58 per pupil—approximately 79% higher than the national average for Canada. Alberta is the only other province to come close to the B.C. figure where it costs $198.76 per pupil.

We have waited until now to point out a remarkable error in Bruce Hutchison's piece about Christopher Morley because we thought dozens of people would have written to draw attention to it.

We refer to Mr. Hutchison's statement that Christopher Morley's title "Thunder on the Left" was a gentle hoax. Morley, we are told, pretended to quote from a fictitious ancient Roman writer to the effect that thunder on the left was a good omen, but this, says Mr. Hutchison, was just another example of Morley's whimsy.

The joke—if you can call it that—is on Mr. Hutchison, it seems to us. The belief in auguries and omens, according to our information, was widespread in the Roman world. The Romans inherited many of their superstitions from the Greeks, and added a few of their own, but it is certain that thunder and lightning on the left, and the flight of birds from that direction were reckoned among the most favorable omens.

Mr. Hutchison will find all this—and some fascinating details about haruspica-tion, or augury from entrails—in any good classical dictionary. We are sure that Mr. Morley must have known about it, but perhaps he was pulling Mr. Hutchison's leg. He was whimsical, wasn't he? In any case Mr. Hutchison seems to have been less fortunate in his teachers than we are today.

Explanation and Apology

May I be allowed to point out that in Civil Defence circles it is deemed axiomatic that the established protective services of a target area—that is the police and firefighting forces—must form the active nucleus of all voluntary protective services both for organization and for training as auxiliary forces attached to such established forces. From which it follows that the established forces must have the specialized knowledge necessary to their personal protection of the public in the event of enemy action or of civil disaster of magnitude, which specialized knowledge can best be gained by attending courses of tuition given by trained and knowledgeable members of a civil defence organization.

The need for integration of the three protective services—police, fire and civil defence appearing to me to be not only a matter of increasing urgency, but also of importance as a factor in the apparent apathy of the public towards the problem of personal and collective security in the event of a major disaster, I brought the matter to the attention of the board, giving as my reasons the lack of effective action as I saw them. These reasons in no wise reflect or were intended to reflect on any individual or body of individuals concerned but, on the other hand, were voiced for the sole purpose of emphasizing the need and starting of definite action towards the end of mutual protection.

May I at this point state that I have no personal motives in the action I took or have taken over the past several years whilst devoting a considerable amount of my personal time and energy at a cost only to myself (receiving no compensation nor expecting any), but for the sole purpose of furthering the development of the most adequate protection possible in the circumstances in which we find ourselves, and without adding any significant drain on the treasury.

Unfortunately certain of my remarks and conclusions were evidently made in a manner which permitted misinterpretation. However after reading the press report on the reaction of individual members of the established paid protective services I feel that any misunderstanding which has arisen is not altogether on the wrong side of the ledger.

Apparently the established protective services are prepared to do all they can as individuals, and presumably as bodies, to assist volunteers, present and forthcoming, in their development as effective units in the organization, and as a result of this response I am very happy to offer to those who feel it due them my most humble apologies for any slight or disparagement which they feel directed to them from my remarks at the civil defence control board meeting of April 5.

FROM LONDON

Still No Policy

ON the eve of a long Middle Eastern journey, this reporter has been trying rather desperately to find out just what Middle Eastern policy was agreed upon by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan at Bermuda.

Despite all the happy crowing in the contrary sense, the answer to the foregoing question is, alas, only too clear. They did not agree on any policy. The passage of time always makes the participants in great events, or even in events that ought to have been great but were not, more inclined to be honestly communicative. So although it is a bit late in the day, it still seems worth while trying to summarize what really happened at Bermuda.

In the first place, President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan renewed their wartime comradeship. Thus a basis was laid for intimate personal communication between them in future times of crisis. This was certainly a plus.

Regain Closeness

In the second place, everyone kept repeating, with the President leading the chorus, that the former closeness and frankness must be re-established forthwith.

The President no doubt meant what he said. Whether Secretary Dulles, who is seldom close or frank with his own most intimate subordinates, was equally sincere in his protestations, is an interesting question which only the future can answer. There is no truth, at any rate, in the report that special mechanisms of joint consultation and planning were set up at Bermuda.

In the third place, all present agreed about what they would like to see happen. Egypt's Nasser curbed, the U.N. resolutions enforced, the Middle Eastern oil sources protected for all time—these were some of the objectives that were easily adopted in a delightful glow of concord.

Parlor Game

But the game of statesmen agreeing on what they would like to see happen is of course about as par for the course as the agreeable old parlor game of "what would you do if you had ten million dollars?" And there was no detailed agreement at Bermuda on the only really vital policy problem. This was, of course, the problem of actually making all these wonderful things happen that everyone wants to see happen.

This failure, although as yet only dimly sensed here, is the real reason for the very cool response to Bermuda in London.

And this failure is the reason for saying that no real policy was agreed upon at Bermuda; for in policy making the means are always the great difficulty whereas the ends are generally self-evident.

For the immediate future, developments in the Middle East do not seem too hard to predict from this perspective of London.

Having lightheartedly tossed away every means of pressure that could possibly be applied to Col. Nasser, the great powers of the West are eventually going to have to let Nasser operate the Suez Canal on approximately his own terms, at least as long as he keeps the controversial ditch open to all but Israeli traffic.

Empty Bluster

There will be a lot of empty bluster first. But even the most hot-headed British and French see that an attempted boycott would be a way of cutting off the nose to spite the face. So Nasser will get pretty much his own way on the canal.

In Gaza, too, he is sure to get just about his way. He was, indeed, sure to do so from the moment when it was so strangely decided in Washington that a few thousand strictly, even passionately non-shooting U.N. troops could control 250,000 suicidally inflamed Palestinian refugees wholly guided by Nasser's agents.

Nasser may like to keep the U.N. troops in Gaza on his own terms, however, as a shield against Israel.

Therefore if Nasser does not try to interfere with the passage of Israeli shipping through the Gulf of Aqaba, which seems unlikely, the immediate prospect is disagreeable but unexciting.

The sad phoniness of many assumptions made and things said in recent months will be displayed to the world. There will be bad feeling and criticism, especially Anglo-French criticism of American policy. But that will be about all.

Real Danger

The real danger to the Western alliance lies further ahead in the future, and outside the immediate neighborhood of the Suez Canal. The American Middle Eastern policy that is beginning to be vaguely shadowed forth, is essentially a policy of replacing British weight and influence with American weight and influence.

This would not be easy in the best of circumstances. An American effort to stabilize the Middle East is bound to be encountered by powerful and astute opposition from Moscow.

Moreover, for many different, extremely human reasons, replacing British influence with American influence is a remarkably delicate operation. To go smoothly—and it could hardly succeed unless it goes smoothly—this operation required a policy agreement, made in advance, in great detail, and at the highest level.

Unfortunately, even after all the talk at Bermuda, no such agreement exists.

Hammaraskjold Tells Nothing

NEW YORK—The press conference held last week between the Secretary-General, Mr. Dag Hammarskjold, and the United Nations correspondents, was largely a sparring match ending in a draw, since Mr. Hammarskjold agreed to the conference not so much because he had anything to say, but rather to still the mounting wrath of the correspondents over the fact that he had become so remote a figure.

Lynch

Mr. Hammarskjold submitted to questioning for over an hour by reporters, many of whom were not well disposed toward him. The good humor that he brought to the conference room was still with him when he left. So were all his secrets, for he did not spill a single bean or release from the bag a single cat.

In putting on this remarkable display of dexterity the Secretary-General, who had seemed distraught in a private meeting with a committee of correspondents before he left for Cairo last month, conveyed the impression that the pressures under which he works have eased in the last few weeks, and that, at least by his own lights, his trip to Cairo was a success.

TOO MANY POSSIBILITIES

Virtually the whole of the press conference was taken up with matters concerning the Suez Canal and the United Nations Emergency Force. He gave the impression that there is no remaining urgency about either of these matters, that in the case of the canal the interested parties were making progress toward an agreement in direct dealings, and that in the case of UNEF everything was going according to plan, and he had no misgivings about Egypt's actions or attitudes up to this point. As for the future, there was no point in crystal gazing, and "there are so many theoretical possibilities in the world that we can't go around being worried about them."

It was interesting that the only time Mr.

Hammaraskjold used the words "serious problem" was in answer to a question about a constitutional change within the United Nations—the shift of power from the Security Council to the General Assembly, which was so evident during the recent Assembly session.

He felt this was a development requiring careful attention and study, but here again he had words designed to soothe, pacify and harmonize. He saw no cause for immediate concern, and "we should see a little more what comes out of actual developments in the next assembly or in the next couple of years."

NO RECALL LIKELY

Another indication that the Secretary-General feels the pressures have eased came in his statement that he expected no developments on either the canal or UNEF that would require calling the General Assembly back into session. Even the thorny matters of financing UNEF and paying for Canal clearance, he said, were not urgent, because of the understanding attitude of the nations with troops in UNEF, and the nations that had advanced money for the Canal clearance. Canada has money and men in UNEF, and contributed to the pot to help clear the Canal, and the inference is that she and the other nations involved have told Mr. Hammarskjold that there is no hurry about settling either of these tabs. UNEF's bills are currently being paid from an amount of $10,000,000 voted by the Assembly plus money put up by the participating states.

There remains a possibility that the Assembly may be recalled to hear the report of the Special Assembly Committee which has been taking evidence on the situation in Hungary. This report is expected toward the end of April, and it is possible the United States may want the Assembly recalled for a debate on this subject.

Last week's press conference was notable for some rare items of Hammarskjold's light-heartedness, for example: "It seems incredible, but I do enjoy my job"; and "Where do we go from here. That is part of my professional secret!"

Many Attractions To Neglected Viola

Violas have been used in garden bedding schemes for many years. In fact in the early 1900's they were so popular that hundreds of named varieties were available.

Of late years the use of violas has dwindled, yet they possess most of the attributes we desire in our garden plants. They are of neat habit, have a long season of bloom, a wide range of colors and are easy to propagate. Some violas have the added gift of delicate fragrance which, combined with their compactness of form, makes them ideal for edging narrow pathways.

Contrasting their shining dark green leaves with the greyish foliage of garden pinks, violas are perhaps at their best.

Many of the dianthus genus, to which the perennial garden pinks belong, retain the beauty of their foliage throughout the winter, and thus with the violas provide interest during all seasons.

In all but the most severe winter weather a few violas bloom may be found if the spot is sheltered and sunny. The main season of bloom is considered to be from April through July. As the flowers then become fewer, cut back all straggling shoots until a neat mound is left.

By late August, plenty of new growth will be made. It is some of these young shoots which should be taken for cuttings to make additional identical plants. Insert the cuttings (about three inches in length) in pots or boxes of sandy compost, where they should remain over winter within the shelter of a cold frame.

Hilda

More flowers will appear on the old plants by early September, and these will continue to come until prevented by severe frost.

The shades of purple, pale lavender and mauve are lovely with the shades of pink among the perennial dianthus (pinks) while the yellow shades make attractive edgings used with dwarf blue campanulas.

Radio Pill Tells All About You

NEW YORK (AP)—A fantastic new one-inch pill contains a radio station to broadcast news reports on the health of your insides.

You could easily swallow this radio pill, demonstrated today at the Rockefeller Institute.

It is a plastic capsule, just over an inch long, less than half an inch around. It contains a tiny FM broadcasting station, powered by a miniature storage battery.

As it goes through your stomach, it can broadcast facts about your digestive tract. Mainly it's designed to tell about pressures and muscular contractions. It might also be rigged to tell about acidity and temperatures.

One end of the pill has a rubber diaphragm which moves back and forth in response to pressures or muscular contractions. Each movement affects the radio signal coming from the pill. The signal is picked up by a receiving radio through an antenna held close to the body.

The pill also can be traced by fluoroscope, to pinpoint its location at any time. The capsule is also affected by magnets, and magnets outside the body could be used to steer it or perhaps make it hold at a given location for a time while its tell-tale signals are studied.

Scientists said it could prove useful in understanding normal activity in the digestive tract, and what goes wrong in such ailments as spastic colitis, ulcerative colitis and other upsets.

Bad Drivers to Get Advice from Experts

Many drivers whose licences are suspended for highway infractions will be required this year to appear before the motor-vehicle branch for a personal interview and re-examination.

"The main purpose of the interview is to assist the motorist in overcoming his problems and to point out to him how he may become a safe highway user," a department bulletin states.

Drivers found to be still unsuitable to regain driving privileges will not be re-instated.

Last year the motor-vehicle branch warned 3,000 motorists of the need of more driving care, and suspended the licences of 2,000 others for periods ranging from 15 days to three years.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Ben Cohen (MOTHER OF 5)

Along about 3 months, when baby's vision begins to sharpen, glint and glitter toys are a joy for baby to behold. All manner of mobiles are fascinating. A couple of "cost-nothing" kinds: (1) Make various cut-outs (hearts, diamonds, circles) from colored paper or aluminum foil. Tie them to a wire coat hanger. Suspend the mobile from a suction hook attached to the wall next to baby's crib. (2) A silver baby spoon, a dangle from a shiny ribbon, makes a nice bright spot at the foot of baby's crib.

Sharp idea from a sharp mother. There's nothing so annoying as diaper-dull pins. I stuff a piece of steel wool into one of baby's socks and keep it right with baby's other diapering accessories. A quick jab or two and diaper pins are sharp as new.

Work saver. Easiest way to give baby vitamin-D drops is right from the dropper while he's stripped for his bath.

A "stuff-of-life" food for small fry—specially prepared cereal. Gerber Baby Cereals are enriched with blood-building iron, bone-building calcium and the B-vitamins that aid growth. What's more, they're a rich source of the calories baby needs for energy. As for eating pleasure, Gerber Cereals have mild, but distinctive flavors and the creamiest consistency imaginable. Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat and Mixed Cereal—all ready to serve when mixed with milk or formula. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

LONDON LETTER

England's Changing Face

LONDON—The changing face of England... If there is anything more typically English than a tearoom, it is a tearoom in a cinema. These came into vogue in the 20s when the English took to building suburban "picture palaces," thus named because each was the most opulent looking building in the area.

Usually the tearoom is off the grand staircase leading up to the dress circle and for many years it was a favorite pastime of housewives to drop in and see the show after their shopping and then have a nice cup of tea and a natter before going home to cope with the family's evening meal.

Well, it seems the cinema tearoom is doomed. Reason: not enough movie patrons to make them pay. Faced with carrying an unprofitable aspect of their empire, the big Odeon circuit (500 cinemas) looked around for an idea to put the tearoom space to better advantage.

Ballroom dancing—that was the answer! One of the few other things in the entertainment world besides television which is booming is dancing. So, they've called in Victor Silvester and the conversion of the tea-rooms to dancing schools is under way. If by odd chance you don't know who Victor Silvester is—he has a dance band that drives you crazy to listen to (even more so than Lombardo) but he is beloved of the ballroom dancing fans because he always plays in strict tempo.

SYNOPSIS—B.C. has not completely escaped the outbreak of cold air that covers the prairies. There has been some penetration of the Arctic air into valleys of the northern and central interior to give temperatures down to the low twenties in the Prince George area Tuesday night, and some snow showers in the Kootenays.
The southern interior will continue mostly cloudy today while the rest of the province is sunny. On Thursday a weak disturbance from the Pacific will bring increasing cloudiness to the southern coast but have little effect on other areas of B.C.

Anti-Crime Results, Not Alibis, Police Warned as Budget Passed

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER — City council has issued a "stop crime or else" ultimatum to the Vancouver police commission. The ultimatum was disclosed as council passed a budget which will give the police commission a quarter of a million dollars more in 1957 than it had last year.

Alderman George Miller, one of the budget planners, told council he had warned the commission: "We're giving you what you're asking for and now we want results. No more alibis."

Council had expressed concern earlier about a mounting crime wave here. More than 100 crimes of violence have been reported since Jan. 1.

The police commission's 1957 budget will be $4,235,000, exactly what the police commission asked. This is an increase of $274,000 over last year.

The total city budget for 1957 will be a record $46,000,000, an increase of $5,300,000 over 1956.

GRAVE CONDITION

FORT ST. JOHN — Paul Labouane, shot through the abdomen when police arrested a group following a disturbance in Fort St. John cafe, is reported to be in grave condition in hospital in Edmonton. Two of the group arrested have been fined $200 each for resisting an officer. No charges have been laid against Labouane.

URGE B.C. TO ACT

VANCOUVER — This city will not take sides in the political controversy arising from the federal government's offer to help finance power developments on the Columbia River, council decided Tuesday. Council members suggested the provincial government be urged to enter into an agreement with Ottawa and become eligible for federal aid as recently outlined by Fisheries Minister James Sinclair.

"MISUSE" OF ARMS

VANCOUVER — A 64-year-old man who admitted taking heroin to ease the pain of a 30-year-old police bullet wound, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment by Magistrate Oscar Orr Tuesday. In handing down the sentence, Mr. Orr observed that Hull had been shot when attempting to escape police 30 years ago for alleged drug offences. "It was certainly a misuse of firearms," the magistrate commented.

FINED $377

PENTICTON — Inge Sanborn was fined a total of $377.60 in Penticton and Summerland police courts on charges of possessing obscene pictures for purpose of sale and distributing obscene pictures. He pleaded not guilty to the first charge in Penticton and guilty to the second in Summerland.

Boxer's Killer Found Guilty

NEW YORK (AP) — A Bronx jury Tuesday found Vincent Spadaro guilty of first degree murder in the shooting of former welter-weight boxer Frankie Palermo after a quarrel in a candy store Jan. 22. The verdict carries a mandatory death sentence. However, there is an automatic appeal.

IN PARLIAMENT

Clucking, Crowing, Bleating—Busy Day

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA—With mock clucking, crowing and bleating, the House concluded a day-long consideration of agricultural problems.

The debate Tuesday saw the Progressive Conservatives espouse a system of parity prices for agricultural products. It ended with the Liberal majority rejecting the idea.

Opposition, Leader Diefenbaker opened the debate with a motion of non-confidence in the government demanding legislation this session—due to dissolve by Friday for a June 10 election—assuring a flexible system of price supports for agricultural products to give farmers a reasonable share of the national income.

His motion was amended by Gardiner—'Prize Clucker in Canada'

At one point Agriculture Minister Gardiner referred to chickens as he defended the government's agricultural policies. There were some chickens that clucked all the time but, never laid any eggs. "There never has been more cluckers than there are in this government," said Hon. Earl Rowe (PC-Dufferin-Simcoe). Mr. Gardiner was the "prize clucker in Canada."

Later, when votes were called on the motions, the sound of roosters crowing came from the opposition benches. Liberals replied, with bleats.

The Liberals, supported by two Quebec independents, rejected the CCF motion 125 to 62. The Conservatives joined Social Credit in supporting the CCF request for parity prices.

The CCF then joined Social Credit and the two independents in supporting Mr. Diefenbaker's motion, but the Liberals rejected it 121 to 64.

Bridegroom Beats Charge By Customs

On landing at Vancouver airport with his 18-year-old bride, from China, Mah Shek Foo told customs officers all he had to declare was "some dried medicine," meaning herbs.

Under questioning he said he had overlooked declaring a camera. Then he admitted "overlooking" a wrist watch and a quantity of jewelry purchased in China.

In police court the Chinese was fined $200 under Section 18 of the Customs Act and his purchases (excepting the herbs) were forfeited to the Crown.

In the Appeal Court Tuesday, however, Mr. Justice Sidney Smith and two other judges dismissed the magistrate's conviction.

They ruled that under this particular section of the Customs Act this was not an offence of failing to declare goods because the Chinese "had not unloaded or disposed of them".

Charges by a CCF Member of Parliament that a number of the sheep for which Philip J. Rock, of Drumheller, Alberta, above, was paid $100,000 compensation when his herd contracted a contagious disease, scrapie, were never destroyed and shipped to Manitoba, were ruled unfounded by the House of Commons agriculture committee Monday. Addition to Hall Useless Says Ash

Reeve Sees Another Sewer Fiasco; Claims Electors' Wishes Ignored

Reeve Arthur Ash describes a proposed addition to Saanich municipal hall as a "concrete monument that will prove useless in future years."

In a statement Tuesday, the reeve blasted councillors for trying to push the $225,000 project through without proper study.

His angry outburst followed a council meeting Monday night at which he was over-ridden by his councillors.

Ratepayers had shown in a plebiscite last December that they favored continuation of talks with other Greater Victoria municipalities on a joint municipal hall.

IGNORED VOTE

"Council saw fit to ignore that vote," Reeve Ash said, "but I do not intend to stand by and not have the question settled by the ratepayers."

"We made an expensive mistake six years ago in the matter of sewers," the reeve said. "Surely we do not want to make another one."

The reeve attacked council members for virtually giving the go-ahead to the project without receiving a comprehensive report from the architects with a breakdown of estimated costs.

UNBELIEVABLE

"It is unbelievable that the councillors refused my reasonable and fair request to table this matter until such time as all members have the opportunity to study the recommendations of the hall committee."

Reeve Ash noted that council had shown "fierce opposition" to investigating amalgamation.

"Why? Are they afraid it might show them up as protectors perpetuating little empires or Balkan states in this area?"

"Surely we owe it as a duty to the ratepayers to fully investigate all schemes that might be of benefit to them."

GREAT FUTURE

"Experts believe the African kingdom of Ethiopia has an almost unlimited industrial potential."

Cemetery Appeal Set For May 10 to 14

An appeal against the establishment of a private garden cemetery near Goldstream will be heard by judges of the B.C. Court of Appeal May 10, 13 and 14 in Victoria.

Local cemeteries and the city of Victoria are opposing a ruling by the Public Utilities Commission permitting establishment of the cemetery.

Saanich, Colwood Cemetery, Royal Oak Burial Park and a group of property owners near the proposed cemetery are appealing on the ground that there are already sufficient cemeteries in Greater Victoria.

500 Likely to Register For First Summer School

Full calendar of 19 credit courses, including several in third-year, and 13 non-credit courses will be offered in one of the most far-reaching summer sessions ever held here.

The school will be held at the college from July 2 to Aug. 16, and registrations must be completed one week prior to the first lecture scheduled for the course.

Director is Prof. Robert T. Wallace, vice-principal of Victoria College.

Linking with B.C.'s centennial plans for 1958, the college will offer a 10-evening course on "British Columbia," headed by Lawrence J. Wallace, general chairman of the B.C. Centennial Committee.

Phony Roof Repair Gang Said on Way

Royal Canadian Mounted Police have warned city and municipal police of a group supposedly headed for Victoria in an attempt to fleece the public in phony roof repair, painting and floor covering deals.

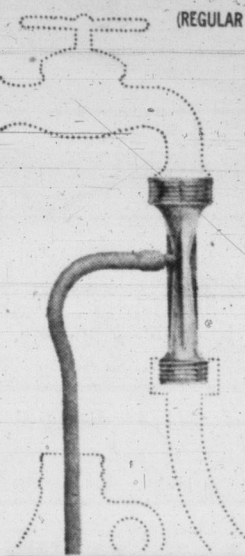

The men, who usually stay at motels and trailer parks, are travelling in a 1956 pink and white Ford station wagon and green half-ton pick-up truck, police said.

Noisy Farewell at Halifax As Maggie Returns to RN

HALIFAX (CP)—The aircraft carrier Magnificent will be replaced shortly by the new carrier Bonaventure, built in Belfast where the Maggie was commissioned April 6, 1948.

Scores of ships and thousands of spectators gave her a noisy farewell when she arrived here on her first trip in February.

The cheers blended with prolonged blasts from harbor craft whistles, a volley from historical Citadel Hill, the roar of low-flying planes and helicopters, and the music of a navy band.

Her career as capital ship of the Atlantic Fleet has been peppered with unusual events, many of them unpleasant.

CREW'S PROTEST

Rumors of Communist intrigue and sabotage blanketed the ship two years later when sand and brass filings were found in the main engine bearings. The person or persons responsible were never apprehended.

Even the carrier's last arrival here was marred when the naval tug Glendyne, which was helping the Maggie into her berth, rolled over and a crew member drowned.

The Maggie's history has not all been unfortunate. She played an important role in NATO war exercises, was an ambassador of goodwill to many foreign ports and a training base for countless officers and men.

The carrier also served as Canada's flagship at the Spithead review during Queen Elizabeth's Coronation in 1953.

The carrier's last assignment for Canada was carrying supplies to the Mediterranean in the Suez crisis.

"irregular hours and shortened meal hours".

The same year, in June, she went aground on the south shore of Nova Scotia, about 30 miles from here. She was quickly refloated but damage amounted to $275,000. Her commander and navigation officer were convicted of placing the ship in a hazardous position.

Rumors of Communist intrigue and sabotage blanketed the ship two years later when sand and brass filings were found in the main engine bearings. The person or persons responsible were never apprehended.

SAVE BABY ORDER FOR STORY FAMILY

TOKIO (Reuters)—Two storks were saved from eviction here because they are expecting an addition to the family. A telephone company planned to destroy the storks' nest atop a telephone pole but decided to erect a new pole and reroute wires rather than disturb the home.

WAGE HIKE APPROVED

VANCOUVER—City council Tuesday accepted "under protest" a conciliation board award giving civic outside workers a 14½ cents hourly wage increase. The one-year contract raises the basic salary to $1.71 an hour.

Why Costly Sports Curriculum? They Won't Even Walk to School

Why should the school board spend money to exercise children when they won't walk to school?

Victoria—Esquimalt Union Board of Health asked this question Tuesday.

The board heard a report by George Grant, school board physical education supervisor, and Fred Martens, Victoria College PT instructor, who compiled a recent survey of muscular fitness of 3,189 local youngsters.

Results showed four out of 10 pupils lacked minimum muscular ability to meet everyday tasks of life. It showed Victoria students are superior to United States children, but a long way behind European children.

The tests, internationally known Kraus-Weber tests, were conducted here in February by Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Mr. Grant said where 39.2

per cent of local youngsters failed one or more of the tests, in Austria, Italy and Switzerland only 8.2 per cent failed one or more.

He felt the superior European results were due to the fact European children run, walk, climb and play to a greater degree.

"Far too many of our children ride to school," agreed Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson.

Mr. Grant said some parents are unable to make their children walk even short distances. They insist on taking a bus, "because all their friends do it." School board operates buses only where children live over three miles from a school.

Ald. Don Smith saw irony in the trend toward expensive sports curriculum and gymnasiums. "Why should we spend money for exercise when more walking would help?"

The board took no action on the matter but agreed public fitness should be stressed and Greater Victoria School Board should take a serious look at its physical education program.

Russ Protest Panama 'Delays'

LONDON (AP)—Russia has protested to the United States that Soviet ships going through the Panama Canal are being subjected to long "discriminatory" inspections.

Moscow radio Tuesday night said the U.S. state department was handed a note Monday stating that since Jan. 1 American armed guards have stopped three Soviet vessels for many hours while inspectors combed through their cargoes and photographed "all technical equipment."

A state department spokesman in Washington said he knew of no such protest being delivered. He added that the Russians had "tried to make propaganda in the canal area before about such things as not being able to buy hydrographic maps there."

EQUAL TREATMENT

Waterfront sources in Panama said the Russian ships got much the same treatment as that given American ships calling at Soviet ports.

The Moscow broadcast called the inspections "a flagrant violation of the principle of complete equality in the use of canals under international importance to all countries proclaimed in the Panama Canal Treaty in 1901."

The note said 18 armed canal guards boarded the motorship N. Ostrovsky Jan. 2 at Balboa and inspected it for seven hours. It said the ship was held up until the following day, when it sailed with the guards still aboard and a police cutter acting as escort.

The death rate from cancer of the buccal cavity (mouth, tongue, etc.) has dropped 45 per cent for males and 17 per cent for females in the past 20 years.

WOMAN, 2 CHILDREN DIE IN ALASKA HOTEL FIRE

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—A woman and two small children died Tuesday in a fire which destroyed the Curry Hotel, Alaska railroad landmark midway between here and Fairbanks.

They were identified as Mrs. Evon Heare, and Christine, 2, and Charles 1, children of Mr. and Mrs. James Blakeley.

A message from Safeway:

This Personal Price-Check can be worth many dollars to you!

SMART SHOPPER, this lady! She's not about to take anybody's word on low-price claims. She's doing what we invite you to do. She's checking prices at Safeway against prices at other stores ... on the very same items!

She started when she prepared her week's shopping list. By writing it on a wider sheet of paper than usual, she could have several columns for recording prices at different stores. As she filled her shopping list at Safeway, she wrote the price, after each item, in the first column.

She then visited several other stores. Using the same shopping list in each store, prices for the identical items were recorded in her separate columns.

Then she totaled each column. She was impressed by the big differences between the totals ... by the amount saved at Safeway on purchases for the week. Multiplying this saving by 52, she got a fair estimate of her savings at Safeway for an entire year ... and was she ever pleased!

We urge you to make this sort of personal price-check. It will give you conclusive proof, why "Safeway's your BEST place to save!"

LANGFORD LAKE BATTLE

Deer Drowned
By Angry Goose

A 60-pound yearling deer drowned in Langford Lake Monday after being attacked by a Canada goose.

The fiercely-protective gander apparently thought the deer was a danger to its mate, which is nesting on an island in the lake.

The rare nature battle took place in front of the home of Frank Ray, who witnessed the encounter with his daughter Mrs. Robin Woolcock, and Robert Simpson.

The gander was on a raft in front of Mr. Ray's home when he saw the deer swimming from the island towards the raft.

"It dived into the water and swam out to meet it," said Mr. Ray. "The bird circled the deer, hissing and thrashing around it until the deer tired and drowned."

He said when they realized what was happening they rushed to a boat and rowed out, but arrived too late to save the deer. It drowned as they got to the scene.

NO RESPONSE

When the deer was towed to shore, Mrs. Woolcock tried artificial respiration but failed to revive it.

Commenting on the unusual incident, Dr. Clifford Carl said at nesting time all birds are aggressive and do all they can to protect their young.

"I've never heard of a goose drowning a deer," he said. "But I guess it wouldn't take much to drown a yearling as it tires easily in the water."

SCREWBALL WORLD

This Taxpayer Is Two-Time Loser

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—It was a bad day for Chester Hill.

He was standing in line to pay his income tax when a pickpocket robbed him of his wallet containing $12.

Hill was holding the cash with which to pay his tax in his hand. The robber didn't take that.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A serious accident can result when a wheel flies off a moving car, but in the case of a car driven by Francis Hillen, 23, the wheel itself prevented the accident by lodging in the car's frame. The braking action that resulted brought the car to a sudden halt.

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—Sir Reginald had a hangdog look. He was strangely quiet and wouldn't eat or drink.

Deciding maybe something serious was wrong, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Humphreys put the 10-year-old cocker spaniel in their car and started for a veterinarian's office.

Mrs. Humphreys held the pet. She rubbed his head and patted his jaw.

"I have diagnosed the case," she suddenly told her husband. She removed a rubber band which had slipped around Sir Reginald's jaw and held it fast. The band apparently had come from a newspaper the dog had lugged into the house.

Sir Reginald recovered quickly.

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (Reuters)—The municipal bus company Tuesday refused to hire a Sikh as a bus conductor because he refused to shave off his beard and remove his turban.

THE DALLES, Ore. (AP)—Thus far, old Paddy the beaver can only claim a draw in a continuing feud with United States Army engineers.

Paddy is still alive and kicking—but so is the biggest dam problem he ever faced in his life.

The battle is an off-times-daily affair at the navigation lock of the giant McNary Dam on the Columbia River between Washington and Oregon.

Paddy persistently tries to block water coming through the lock by piling debris behind the lock's upper gate. "Just as persistently," as often as the lock is opened, the engineers destroy his sticks-and-mud blockade, but he comes right back with new material and new vigor.

Estonia Gets Tough

MOSCOW (AP)—The Estonian republic has ordered sentences of two to five years of forced work "at a place of exile" for vagrants. The newspaper Soviet Estonia said exile can be voted by citizens' meetings. The paper said, the plan was aimed at intensifying "the struggle against anti-social, parasitic elements."

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

Denny Boyd

Whither the Victoria Cougars?
Is professional hockey going to be wrapped in the dingy shrouds of financial failure and laid to rest in the cold, damp plot already occupied by professional baseball?
There is only one guy who can answer that question.
The sports fan of Victoria.
If he wants professional hockey, he can have it for as long as he wants it.
If he is tired of the game, it can and will be taken away from him.
It is that simple.
There is a heavy background of profit and loss connected with the current uncertain status of professional hockey here. That will be dealt with later.
But let us stress the fact that the entire future of the game hinges on a yes or no answer from the people for whom the game is presented. The sports fan.
The directors of the club want to continue operation of the team. But they don't want to do it solely for their own entertainment. It is too expensive a luxury, sponsoring a team that does not receive adequate support from the little guy on the street who wields such a huge authority.

Situation Grim, But Not Yet Hopeless

But the situation, grim as it may be, has not yet reached that point of no return.
The Victoria Hockey Club is broke.
To continue operating next year, it will need some $30,000 in working capital.
It is the feeling among the directors of the team that this money can be raised, if there is sufficient assurance that the investment will be worthwhile.
But, it is hardly necessary to point out, no one is going to put up this money unless there is a promise that the financial support will be matched by fan support next season.
Nor is this hesitance without motivation.
It cost the Cougars $148,000 to operate this year and, when the last game was played, the club had absorbed a staggering $28,000 loss.
The previous year, the loss had been $10,000.
This year, the Cougars drew 91,831 fans to 35 home games.
The previous year, they drew 99,107.
Every year, another splash of red ink.
Who is taking this loss?
It is a group of sports-minded business men in town who like hockey and feel it is good for the city and good for their businesses.
Two seasons ago, when ownership of the club was opened up, with the retirement of Lester Patrick, the shares were split four ways.

Club Entirely in Hands of Victorians

The late Fred Hutchinson owned one-quarter. Lynn and Muzz Patrick each owned a quarter and the other quarter was divided between these business men.
Lester Patrick assumed the responsibility of his sons' shares and, with the death of Hutchinson, his share passed on to his widow, Nellie.
However, Lester is turning his shares over to the team, which already has picked up Mrs. Hutchinson's shares. (When a team is broke, the transfer of shares is not a complicated thing.)
And so it is now that the club is in the hands of these Victoria business and professional men.
You probably know a few of these men because they are Victorians. They aren't potentates in an eastern city who run the club by pulling long distance strings. You can meet these fellows in the corner coffee shop.
There is the club president, Dr. Reg. Wride, and vice-president Gordon Holmes. And there is tugboat-man Harold Elworthy, Dr. Andy Riles, my boss Stu Keate, Vancouver Canucks-needler Russell Kerr, Harold Husband, Tan Ross (the man with the flowers), curler Max Zabel, Admiral J. C. Hibbard, Paintman Fred Manning, lawyer Ed Pearlman, Oliver Prentice and Morris Greene (the Mayor of Store Street).

Cut-Down Budget Planned Next Year

These are the people who have put up anywhere from $666 to $3,330 in cash for their shares.
They have lost their money this year but they aren't complaining. Most of them will come back for more, if the future only will take on a little rosier hue.
Right now, the club has no assets but, before the hockey office doors are locked for the summer, all obligations will have been met.
It is then that the directors would like to start over again.
There will be a Western Hockey League meeting held in Seattle later this month where other clubs in similar shaky circumstances will compare notes (written in red ink, of course).

It is likely that the clubs will be asked to follow a cut-down budget of about $110,000 for next year's operations. There will be only one prairie trip instead of the rash and financially suicidal three of this last season.

Arena Could Do a Lot to Help

It is purely a personal observation but my own feeling is that the Arena Commission could do a lot to help the Victoria Hockey Club by paring down its exorbitant rental to a more sensible price.
The arena has been charging the club $650 a night for use of its facilities, the highest rent in the league. Over a 35-game schedule, that works out to $22,750 that the club is asked to pay for what is still supposed to be a "Memorial" arena, not a barrel-roofed cash register.
Certainly, the arena commissioners should realize that they cannot afford to lose pro hockey. If they do lose it, they might just as well fill the arena floor with stuffed animals and call it a museum, for all the use it will get during the winter. As it is now, Victoria commission gets the concession (hot-dog and coffee) money; in Vancouver, Foley Hall receives $30,000 from this source for his team.
As I see it, one of the first steps towards saving professional hockey would be a slash in this rental. It wouldn't be charity; it would be sound business sense.
That is the financial picture, as it looks today, and it does not make for cheerful viewing.
But, as one director said Tuesday, "We aren't complaining about the lack of fan support; we are just wondering. If Victoria is tired of pro hockey, then we won't bring it back. But if we can get a vote of confidence from the sports fans and an assurance that they will back us up next season, we'll bring the game back for as many years as it is wanted."

SEVEN ADVANCE

Local Golf Gals Dominate Empress

Victoria shotmakers, who captured half of the qualifying berths in the women's division of the 27th annual Empress golf tournament, dominated the first round of championship play at Uplands Golf Club Tuesday.
Of the eight Victorians who started match play in the championship division, only one lost to a visiting competitor and five, including medalist Eileen Verley, advanced to today's second round.
Still standing in the way of a Victoria triumph in the event are Mrs. O. W. Smith of Seattle, who won the Sir Edward Beatty Trophy in 1955; Calgary's Mrs. S. LeNeve, who met Mrs. Smith today; and Mrs. R. E. Veith of Seattle.
Mrs. Verley, whose net 75 topped qualifiers at Uplands Monday, took her opening match in the handicap tourney with a 2-and-1 victory over Mrs. G. J. Barbey, an eight-handicapper from Astoria, and clashed with Mrs. A. Swan of the host club today.
Joan Olson, a 2-and-1 victor over Mrs. L. G. Palmer of Calgary, met Mrs. Veith while Mrs. Joan Olson, who edged New Westminster's Mrs. W. W. Stewart on the 18th green, tackled Mrs. Vaio, who advanced to the quarter-finals with a close win over another Victorian, Mrs. N. M. Bamford.
Semi-finals in the women's competition will be played Thursday, and all finals are scheduled Friday.

A TIME FOR TEARS, AND A TIME FOR SMILES

Hopes of a third Empress golf tournament title were shattered at Victoria Golf Club Tuesday for Ken Lindley, Seattle (left), who was bounced out of the running for Sir Edward Beatty Trophy by Dr. Bill Fowler, Vancouver. The defending champion shares "crying towel" with Calgary's Dennis Pur-vis, tourney medalist, who was also bounced out of the championship division Tuesday. Life looked brighter for Harold Husband (right), Victoria, who happily demonstrates how he hit iron shots "a mile" in first-round match to Mrs. R. B. O'Callahan, Vancouver, and M. W. Cozart, Calgary. (Times photos)

Choice Heads Lopped

Favorites Ousted In Empress Tourney

Heads fell in order at the 27th playing of the Empress golf tournament Tuesday with many favored players being shunted unceremoniously out of the picture.
One of the first to go in the championship round was medalist Denny Purvis of Calgary.
He was defeated one up by Harold Husband, of Victoria, in a match that went to the last putt on the last green before a winner could be declared.
In explaining his loss, Purvis said, "I just didn't have enough golf shots. He (Husband) is a pretty steady player. I was getting to the green okay, but couldn't seem to find the cup."
This was amply shown on the 18th when Purvis missed a half as his second putt ran squarely over the mouth of the cup to give Husband the hole and the match.
Dr. Ken Lindley, Seattle Neurosurgeon and defending champion, was also booted out of the championship round when he was defeated 2 and 1 by Dr. W. J. Fowler, a 10-handicapper from Vancouver.
Lindley was looking for his third Empress title, having won in 1949 and 1956.

CLUB CHAMP LOSERS

Last year's host-club champion, Jim Barry, was also knocked out of contention when he lost to E. Gudewill, of Victoria, 2 up.
Barry said, "The only trouble I ran into was him (Gudewill). For instance, on the 10th, he hooked his drive into the rocks and then bounced back on the fairway. What are you going to do?"
Eric Whitehead, of Vancouver's Seymour Golf Course, who claims that this is his first tournament, beat left-handed Stan Moore, of Victoria 2 and 1 while G. W. Cook took F. A. Strohecker 2 and 1; W. Coffin, of Portland, beat Dr. D. F. Ryan, of Seattle 1 up and R. H. Syring, of Portland took H. H. Lawson, of Calgary 2 up.

C. V. H. Bryan, of Calgary, beat W. Dawson, of Seattle, 1 up; E. J. Ketchum, of Seattle, took A. D. Inches of Portland 2 and 1; D. W. Coons, of Vancouver, Wash., beat A. L. Davis, of Calgary, 1 up; R. D. Clay, of Victoria, won over D. V. Cawley, of Seattle, 2 and 1; H. L. Olson, of Mt. Vernon, Wash., beat F. Schmidz, of Seattle, 2 and 1.
Ed Rapp, of Vancouver, Wash., birdied 15 and 16 to defeat F. E. King, of Calgary, 1 up; G. Goodwin, of Victoria, took C. W. Redding, of Portland, 2 and 1; G. R. Gardner, of Calgary, beat J. L. Hansen, of Portland, 2 up and J. A. Hanover, of Seattle, defeated J. L. Haw, of Calgary, 2 up.

Montreal Blues Canadian Champs

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's Snowdon Y.M.H.A. Blues stretched a 28-game winning streak into a national championship Tuesday night by defeating Winnipeg St. Vital Bulldogs 60-50 for the Canadian senior men's basketball title.
The Montreal club turned back the Western champions 73-59 and 87-73 in the first two games of the best-of-five playoff here during the weekend and clinched their second championship in seven years.
Herb Jacobson, colorful import centre for the Blues, picked up 22 of his team's points. Teammate Jack Goldfman netted 18 points.

POTTY'S POT INVITING; HOLMAN POUNDS TARGET

PORTLAND (AP) — Johnny Holman found an open path to Ewart Potgieter's ample stomach and pounded out a unanimous 10-round decision over the huge South African heavyweight fighter here Tuesday night.

The 7-foot 3-inch Potgieter weighed 325 pounds. Holman, who fights out of Chicago, tipped the scales at 203.

Royals, Regals Head for Final

By The Canadian Press
The way it looks today, Brandon Regals and New Westminster Royals will battle for the President's Cup in this season's final Western Hockey League series.

Both teams have 3-1 leads in the prairie and coast division playoffs. Tuesday night the Royals, despite the loss of some top players, dumped Seattle Americans 5-2 and the Regals nosed out Edmonton Flyers 3-2 in overtime.
Brandon could polish off the prairie playoff Thursday night and New Westminster gets its chance on the coast Friday. If Edmonton or Seattle wins a game, the series will continue Friday and next Tuesday.

At New Westminster, the Royals gathered a 2-0 first period lead, split two goals in the second, and hammered home the victory with two in the third. The Americans scored one goal in the final period.
Blinky Boyce and Ollie Dorohoy, each with a goal and an assist, and Arnie Schmutz with two assists, led the Royals' attack. Dick Roberge, Arlo Goodwin and Bobbie Love were New Westminster's other goal-getters.
Seattle goals came from Val Fonteyne and Art Hart.

FRANCIS BLOWS

Thirty of forty minutes awarded in penalties were gathered in a wild second period, with Americans' goalie Emile Francis receiving a 10-minute misconduct for attacking referee Scotty Morrison after the Royals third goal.
New Westminster took to the ice without Steve Hrynnyak, Pete Durham and high scoring forward Gordie Fashaway, suffering from an infected mouth.
Len Haley's goal in overtime gave the Regals their 3-2 win over Edmonton.

Les Colwell and defenceman Brandon scorers with Bill McCrory and Don Poile countered for the Flyers.
At the end of the first, the clubs were level-pegging at 1-1, but the Regals counted the only goal of the second period to go ahead 2-1.
For the winning goal, Haley and Colwell broke into the clear as the Flyers were staging a gangling attack. One Flyer player overtook Colwell but he managed to pass to Haley who timed into the goalmouth.

TIME OUT! BY JEFF BEATE

Several disputes highlighted the game, including a late third-period Rochester goal that was disallowed, and a near donnybrook after the final whistle.

Cleveland defenceman Ron Ingram scored the winner, at the 48-second mark of the first 10-minute overtime period. It was not sudden death play.

After the final whistle, players jumped from their benches and jostled with each other. A few dropped their gloves and took swings at each other, but the officials managed to clear the ice before it became too serious.
The second game is set for tonight in Rochester.

Bruins Stop Rocket But Jean Takes Over

Habs Go Two Up; Plante Hot

MONTREAL (BUP) — The Montreal Canadiens, powered by two clutch playoff games in their own Forum, were ready today to move into Boston with a 2-0 lead over the Bruins in defence of their Stanley Cup hockey title.

The flexible Canadiens came up with "an oldtime playoff game" last night to edge the Bruins, 1-0, in the second game following a spectacular wide-open first game in which Maurice (Rocket) Richard scored four times.
"But we will have to show more offensive strength if we hope to win in Boston," said cautious Toe Blake, coach of the Canadiens. "We were weak offensively, especially in the second period after centre Jean Beliveau scored."

"That was really a playoff game, though," he said. "One of the old-timers, I think maybe they (the Canadiens) started protecting that one-goal lead kind of soon, but it was still the best defensive game we have played."

PLANTE'S BEST

In recent weeks Blake has complained about his defence, but he had no fault to find with them last night. Goalie Jacques Plante came up with "his best game of the series" and his sixth shutout in playoff competition. It also marked the first time the Bruins had been blanked in 69 games and the first time they dropped two in a row in their last 20 starts.

The close-checking game was in sharp contrast to Saturday's opener which had the partisan forum crowd on its feet throughout. The only score of the game came early in the second period when Beliveau walked in on Don Simmons and beat the game rookie netminder.
"I came straight in, shifted to the left and shot. It passed him on the right side," Beliveau said.
The Montreal centre started faking the Boston goaler from about 15 feet out and Simmons stayed right with him, but the puck just barely eluded him as Beliveau let go from in front of the crease.

In the third period centre Cal Gardner broke through the Canadiens' defence and had the best scoring opportunity of the night, but Plante stopped him.
Blake also had some kind words for the Bruins, who now are faced with winning four of the next five games if they hope to win their first Stanley Cup title in 11 years.

DIDN'T HAVE IT

"They had us right back in there in the second and third period," Blake said, referring to the pressure the Bruins applied. "We just didn't have it offensively."
"Now maybe the fans will stop booing them. They've been booing them all season here."
Richard, who beat the 25-year-old rookie four times last Saturday, said "they cut the bridge from under me" as he was held scoreless, "but he's a good goalie, no matter what they say."

'A GODSEND TO US'

Tax Lift Boon For O.C. Sport

By JOHN FARROW
LONDON (AP)—Great Britain Tuesday scrapped its 33 1/2 per cent tax on sports admission tickets.

Professional boxing, soccer auto racing, horse racing, golf and greyhound racing are the sports which will get the biggest financial lift from the chancellor's action.
"It means that in two years time, British boxers will be knocking at the world championship door," commented Jack Solomons, king of Britain's boxing promoters.

Solomons said the lifting of the tax would mean more shows, more boxers and tougher competition between British fighters, with a resulting increase in prize-fight business.
Brian Robinson, who managed several race tracks in Britain, said: "This almost certainly will mean some reduction in admission charges."

Cmdr. R. C. T. Roe, secretary of the British Professional Golfers' Association, said: "It is a godsend to us. It will enable us to stage bigger and better events and more international matches."

Teddy Waltham, secretary of the British Boxing Board of Control, gave some idea of the effect the tax had on British boxing.
"In 1952, when the tax was only 16 per cent we had 708 shows. Last year we had only 299 shows. The number of boxers fell from 2,000 in 1952 to 1,000 in 1956," he said.

Saanich Loop To Honor Hoop Champs

Three provincial championship teams will be honored at Brentwood Community Hall Friday night, when the Saanich and Suburban Basketball Leagues hold its annual "presentation night."
League teams which won B.C. titles are Sooke bantam girls, Sooke pre-midget girls and Arrow Future senior "C" men, who will play an exhibition game against Brentwood at 7:30 Friday.

Also due to receive awards are the following league championship clubs: Cordova Bay junior women, Cordova Bay junior men, Brentwood juvenile girls, Sooke juvenile boys, Sooke bantam girls, Cordova Bay bantam boys, Sooke mid-level girls, Burnside mid-level boys and Sooke pre-midget boys.
One of the highlights of the evening will be the announcement of winners of the Brock Whitney Cup and Ernie Stock-Trophy for sportsmanship in the girls' and boys' divisions.
Cordova mid-level boys have been named the club showing the greatest improvement over the season.

Doug Peden OUTDOOR REPORT

Since his appointment as minister of the new provincial department of recreation and conservation, Earle C. Westwood has made it clear that the planned program of parks development will not be delayed by the problems of integrating his new department.

And Dr. David Turner, who will be acting as deputy minister of the department, has stressed tourist potential and the growth of power boating in B.C.

So far, we have heard little about plans for our fish and game resources, and it is to be hoped that the economic and recreational value of wildlife to our province will not be overlooked.

But while B.C.'s army of anglers and hunters is watching to see what plans are in store for the game branch, which, incidentally, is the only one that pays its own way in the new department, what is of more immediate interest to this corner are Mr. Westwood's remarks on modern living.

He sees untold possibilities for the new department "since its formation fits in so well with the fact that the age of automation is advancing, giving us more leisure time."

It might be pointed out that the age of automation hasn't advanced very far into the ranks of the enforcement officers of his big game branch.

Let's look at a few of the reasons it has been said here before that our game wardens are both overworked and underpaid.

In 1936, when there were 35,490 licensed hunters in B.C., there were eight game wardens and an inspector in the Vancouver Island division of the game department. Last year the province's licensed hunters climbed past the 100,000 mark; yet only seven men have been expected to handle enforcement chores on the island for the past six months.

Under the present set-up, a game warden is on duty six days a week, including Sundays and holidays. And his work isn't always over when he goes home. He is on call 24 hours a day, always liable to be called out at night or in the middle of his day off.

For him, a 60-hour week appears to be an expected average. And he receives less pay than most who do a comparable job while toiling 40 hours.

Fortunately, all the game wardens I have met like their job and thus seldom complain about their hours. However, it will be surprising if some are not forced to turn their talents to other fields if a salary increase is delayed much longer. They like to eat steak once in a while, too.

Since it takes a man a long time to absorb the experience necessary to become a good game warden, and since few young men are looking to the game branch as a good place to start a career, it seems wise to make an effort to keep the men we have. The new department could do worse than make a quick survey of conditions in its game branch.

SHORT SHOTS—Members of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association neglected to make suggestions for Canada geese, snow geese, Wilson's snipe and coots when they voted on recommendations for this year's game-bird seasons at their Monday night meeting. . . . second of a series of fly-casting and spinning classes being staged by the game club will be held at the Dallas Road yacht pool Saturday morning from 9 to 12. . . . All anglers are invited to attend. . . . a ham and bacon shoot is scheduled at Victoria Gun Club, Albert Head Road, Sunday afternoon.

Players Answer
Managers' Beefs

By The Associated Press
Managers of four big league clubs who have criticized aspects of their teams recently got their answers Tuesday.

Bob Scheffing of Chicago Cubs, after complaining about his pitching staff, watched young Moe Drabowsky fire a five-hitter in Dallas as the Cubs whipped Baltimore Orioles, 8-3, in a game shortened to eight innings by agreement.

Bill Rigney of New York Giants, also concerned about pitching, got steady performances from Al Worthington and Joe Margoneri in a 4-2 victory over Cleveland Indians.

Wally Post slammed two homers and Ted Kuszewski and Gus Bell one apiece as Cincinnati Reds outscored Washington, 9-7, at Knoxville, Tenn. Before the game, Cubs manager Birdie Tebbets said he wondered when he would get some hitting from Post, Bell and Big Klu.

DOGGERS EDGE BRAVES

Brooklyn manager Walter Alston had popped up with a rare complaint—worry that the Dodgers had been losing so often to Milwaukee he feared it might be habit-forming. Presto! The Dodgers scored four runs in the last of the ninth to beat the Braves, 5-4, at Tulsa.

New York Yankees rallied to defeat Jacksonville of the Sally League, 5-4; Chicago White Sox nipped St. Louis, 6-5, at Lynchburg, Va., and Little Rock of the Southern Association surprised the Kansas City Athletics, 5-4, at Little Rock in other games.

Dodgers, who had lost four straight to Milwaukee and six of nine played this spring, trailed 4-1, entering the last of the ninth. Carl Furillo and Roy Campanella drove in runs before Charley Neal won it with a two-run double. Eddie Mathews homered for Milwaukee.

Mickey Mantle (his fifth) and Andy Carey hit home runs to feature Yanks' victory, with Carey's two-run blow deciding the game in the eighth inning.

Giants Cut Squad

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—New York Giants Tuesday cut four players from their roster, including veteran infielder-outfielder Henry Thompson.

Thompson, a regular with the Giants since 1949, was sold outright to the club's Minneapolis farm in the American Association. Shortstop Eddie Bressour and pitchers Jim Constable and Fernando Rodriguez went to Minneapolis on option.

Spokane Flyers Gain Cup Final

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (CP)—An international Allan Cup final is in the offing as a result of Spokane Flyers' 4-2 win Tuesday night over Fort William Beavers that gave the American club their best-of-seven Western Canada senior hockey semi-final 4-2 with one game tied.

Vic High Captures Chess Title

Victoria High School won the Victoria Secondary Schools Chess Tournament on Tuesday as their six-man team downed S. J. Willis Junior High School, 4-2, in the third round of the finals.

Vic High had previously won the second match of the best-of-three series, 4½-1½, after drawing the first round with the junior high players, 3-3.

Win gave the Vics the Baines-Lewis Trophy, won last year by S. J. Willis as the tournament was staged for the first time. A one-loss-elimination affair, the tournament was also contested by teams from Oak Bay and Mount-View High Schools and Lansdowne, Oak Bay and Central Junior Highs.

Third-round results follow:
John Ganan (SJV) w.f. Fred Comer, Richard Toren (SJV) w.f. Walter Cross, Jeffrey Eng (VHS) w.f. Ken McCarney, Barry Saunders (VHS) w.f. Zane Lewis, Ian Smith (VHS) w.f. Bill Johnson, Keith Louie (VHS) w.f. Craig McTavish.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Superstitious Jack Jordan, who never permitted a photograph to be taken of him before competing in a mid-get-car race, died Tuesday night of injuries suffered in a racing accident here Sunday.

JIM, HARVEY SKUNKED BY DANISH SHUTTLERS

Jimmy Wells and Harvey Hurd, Canadian Junior champion from Victoria, were blanked when they met the powerful Danish team of Finn Kobbero and Jorgen Hamersgaard Hansen in the second round of open doubles play in the United States badminton championships at Spokane Tuesday.

After winning their first-round matches Monday the Victoria duo were "skunked" 15-0, 15-0, by the high-powered Danes.

WHEAT SUPPLIES

Down slightly at 368 million

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canadian visible wheat supplies at the week ended April 3, totalled 368,600,000 bushels, a slight decline from the previous week's total of 369,300,000 bushels.

The board of grain commissioners reported Tuesday the slight decline was due to improved exports of 3,000,000 bushels and domestic shipments of 1,800,000 bushels which offset weekly farmers' marketing of 4,000,000 bushels.

With the exception of rye, commercial supplies of coarse grains and flaxseed were also down slightly during the week. Totals for the week, with the previous week's figure in brackets, were: oats 50,000,000 (50,000,000); barley 7,000,000 (7,000,000); rye 6,000,000 (6,000,000); flaxseed 7,000,000 (7,000,000).

Country elevator stocks declined during the week to 287,000,000 bushels of the five principal grains, compared with 287,000,000 at March 27, and 250,000,000 at April 4, 1956.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Page-Hersey Tubes Jumps 5 1/2 Points

The Toronto market drifted about today. After a strong forward push, especially among industrials, prices settled back from their tops.

Page-Hersey Tubes featured industrials with a 5 1/2 point jump to 114. Moore Corp. was ahead two points at 63.

The market at New York showed renewed strength and moved ahead after some early profit-taking. Industrials were in the forefront making gains from fractions to two points or more.

AT TORONTO: Industrials were higher for the first time in several days. Stanrock, Milliken, Lake, Can-Met, Stanleigh and Northspan gained 15 to 24 cents. Higher-priced issues were fractionally easier. Senior base metals had a few more fractional gains than losses but trading on these stocks was light. Juniors moved in a narrow range with advances holding a slight edge.

Western oils were quiet but a shade higher.

AT NEW YORK: Canadian stocks included Distillers, Seagrams, U.S. Hudson Bay Mining & Aluminium Ltd. 1/2. Down were McIntyre, off 1/2. Dome Mines 1/2 and International Nickel 1/2.

Upside Canadian issues on the American exchange included Loblaws, ahead 1/2. Preston East Dome 3/16 and Molybdenum of Canada 1/2. Lower were Brazilian Tractor, down 1/2. Junior Oils, and Sapphires, down 1/2. Scurry-Rainbow Oil and Richwell Petroleum, off 1/16 each.

AT MONTREAL: Industrials today continued a narrowly higher movement in moderate trading on the stock exchange.

AT LONDON: Companies operating overseas, which are to be exempted from the British income and profits tax, were the outstanding feature on the stock market today.

Government securities, however, were depressed by the unchanged standard rate of tax contained in the budget, presented Tuesday.

Industrials advanced on a broad front. Companies with overseas interest were particularly favored, including Hudson's Bay.

AT VANCOUVER: Prices held with a fair turnover of shares. Pacific Nickel sold 10.30 between 99 and $1.14. Royal Canadian moved 24.00 at 13 1/2. Vantor sold 14.50 at $1.91.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Price in most grains showed hesitation today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, reflecting declines on United States markets. Commercial demand was not aggressive and overseas interest in Canadian coarse grain was weak.

Flax had some export interest and reports indicated small parcel lot sales to the United Kingdom and the Continent. Moderate buying for export accounts also appeared. Offerings were in the form of hedges and some commercial house selling took place. Prices were irregular.

Oats and barley had domestic interest. Prices were easier. Rye trade was thin, in line with U.S. market declines.

There was no information available on overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat. Lakeland prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged except for the durum, which advanced one-eighth cent.

RIVER BED of Campbell River at Upper Campbell Lake has been diverted by temporary conduit to allow construction of centre section of $23,000,000, 1,700-foot long, 170-foot high dam, by B.C. Power Commission.

When completed in March, 1958, earth-fill dam will produce 42,000 horsepower. The Campbell River system will produce over 350,000 horsepower when fully developed, compared to present 238,000.

Island Brigadier Gets New Posting

OTTAWA (CP) — The army today announced new appointments for two brigadiers.

Brig. Herbert W. Love, 43, of Toronto, now commander of the Saskatchewan area with headquarters at Regina, will become deputy quartermaster general design and development at headquarters in Ottawa, Sept. 3.

He replaces Brig. Stephen E. Morris, 49, of Parkville, V.I., who will become commander of the Newfoundland area, based at St. John's, in August.

Life Jacket Wearing Should Be Compulsory, Jury Rules

ALBERNI — Foremen should insist on workmen wearing buoyancy equipment on jobs over or near water, says a jury inquiring into the death of Henk Frans Klok, 25-year-old construction worker.

The verdict brought in at the inquest Monday was of death by accidental drowning in Stamp River April 6.

The jury's recommendation was "workmen should be compelled by the foreman to wear buoyancy equipment and, further, a fully equipped boat be kept readily available at any place where men are working over or near water."

Oil Firm's Bid For Saanich Land To Be Considered

Imperial Oil Ltd. has offered Saanich $1,000 for a tiny tip of Memorial Gore at Shelbourne and Cedar Hill Crossroads, but even this is $11,000 below the asking price.

Council was informed Monday the oil company, which wants the property to permit construction of a service station, has drawn up a nine-point proposal including $400 forthwith in consideration of a deal, an option to complete the deal by July 4 and provision for widening of Cedar Hill "in the future."

Property must be rezoned to commercial, Cottonwood Street closed and the option free of encumbrances, according to the proposal.

It was referred to the finance committee for recommendation.

Winnipeg Doctor, Wife Charged Following Brawl

WINNIPEG — Dr. Dennis Harmer and his wife Kathleen have been charged with assault after a weekend brawl in a rooming house in which the landlady, three policemen and a police matron were injured. Dr. Harmer was the man arrested in rural Manitoba three years ago and hauled to Winnipeg to pay $73.20 for a $2 parking ticket he'd been trying to settle for weeks.

Mill Rate Cut in Nanaimo Proposed by Finance Chief

NANAIMO — A reduction in the mill rate will be recommended when the $1,500,000 budget is handed down here, Alderman D. H. Burns told city council Monday.

Ald. Burns, chairman of the finance committee, said the reduction is made possible by new assessment on land values in commercial areas.

The budget will be presented April 29.

"The last assessment of this type in these areas took place in 1948 and since then the land value has risen considerably," he said. "Extra revenue that the city will receive this year will come from commercial areas while residential areas will be affected very little."

Ald. Burns said the committee is waiting to determine the city's share of school costs, which last year came to $275,456 out of a $1,351,305 budget. Mill rate was increased from 55 to 60.

FLUORIDATION WITHOUT VOTE ASKED BY NANAIMO TEACHERS

NANAIMO — The Nanaimo District Teachers' Association Monday night asked council to introduce fluoridation of this city's water supply without a referendum.

The association's brief drew the comment from Ald. George Bryce that council was being asked to adopt a "dictatorial policy."

The teachers group will be told that under the new Municipal Act a city council cannot introduce fluoridation unless and until three-fifths of the electors voting on the question are in favor.

In their brief the teachers claimed that the greatest problem among children in this area is "the appalling amount of accumulated dental disease."

Duncan Cool On Bid to Ban Daylight Time

DUNCAN — A suggestion that Duncan businessmen and merchants disregard daylight saving time by opening and closing their businesses an hour earlier, has met with little response.

The proposal was made at a meeting of the retail division of the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce.

To save confusion over daylight and standard time, said chairman Charles Beadnell, "the times at which the day begins" should be advanced.

Chambers of commerce in the Kootenay district have been urging an end to daylight time for several years.

Man-Fired Snowslide Kills Two

EMPIRE, Colo. (AP) — De-liberately started with cannon fire, a snowslide Monday killed a camera man filming the action and a highway worker who was warning motorists to stay away.

The photographer's helper, Roland Wyatt, 18, was trapped in the fringe of the avalanche and clawed his way out from under two feet of snow.

John Hermann, 26, Salt Lake City movie camera man, and Wayne S. Whitlock, 21, maintenance worker for the Colorado highway department, suffocated under tons of snow, rock and trees.

The snowslide was set in motion on purpose as part of the highway department's avalanche control work.

Queen Greet Scottish Hero Of War Fame

PARIS (Reuters)—The weather took a turn for the worse today as Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip embarked on the third full day of a state visit to Paris.

The Queen wore an elegant white-edged black overcoat over her white silk dress to keep out the cold wind as she drove out of the presidential Elysee Palace and through the fashionable Rue du Faubourg St. Honoré to the British Embassy.

Thousands of persons who lined the streets also were overcast.

At the embassy the Queen met deputations of the 7,000 Britons living in Paris. She had lunch with Foreign Minister Christian Pineau.

She also met the Tartan Pimpernel of Paris—a 55-year-old Scottish minister, Dr. Donald Caskie, who helped British soldiers during the war to escape from their German captors.

The meeting was arranged when the Queen agreed to lay a foundation stone, brought to Paris from the Island of Iona, where Christianity was introduced in Scotland, for a new Scottish church in the heart of Paris.

The day will end with a state banquet and French government reception tonight in the Louvre, former palace of French kings and now a renowned art museum.

In today's British embassy reception the Queen caused some laughter when she was taken aside and presented to a group with the words "this is the press."

"Oh," she replied.

The journalists laughed. So did the Queen.

Million Jam Seine To Honor Queen

(From CP and UP Dispatches)

PARIS—One million persons—almost half the population of Paris—flocked Tuesday night to the banks of the Seine to watch Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip sail past in a royal white launch.

At one point the Queen was so obviously thrilled by the pageantry and the crowds along the river that she lifted her hand in a Churchill V for victory sign.

As the vessel circled the two islands which form the heart of the city, 5,000 searchlights turned the pageant route into a brilliant path of color.

Unfolded was a display of French life. In the background, the 985-foot-high Eiffel Tower, lighting the British and French flags, was floodlighted against the velvety blue sky.

At Notre Dame, where soft light streamed through stained-glass windows, hundreds of white-robed choirboys sang a medieval chant.

Historic Events Recalled by Pageant

In front of the Palace of the Legion of Honor, 150 grenadiers in Napoleonic uniform marched and wheeled. At the Quai des Tuileries, soldiers in the uniforms of long-gone French kings, lowered the standards of the 17th and 18th centuries.

At the Quai Du Louvre 35 cavaliers stood in uniforms of the army of Louis XV, who lost the Seven Years' War (the French and Indian war) to the British.

An hour before the show started, traffic in the huge Place de la Concorde was at a standstill. Pedestrians were forced to climb over car hoods.

When the presidential yacht reached Notre Dame, the floodlights were put out for several

QUEEN, PRINCE TO VISIT CHANNEL ISLES

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen and Prince Philip will make a three-day official tour of the Channel Islands aboard the royal yacht Britannia in July. It was announced Tuesday. They will sail to Jersey, July 25, and will visit Guernsey, Sark and Alderney on the two following days.

The biggest fireworks display seen in Paris since the visit over 50 years ago of both Elizabeth's and Philip's great-great-grandmother, Queen Victoria, filled the Paris skies.

lame fabric embroidered with diamonds and crystals. Her jewels were all diamonds.

Over the dress, she wore a matching stole of embroidered lace lavishly bordered with white fox.

The only blaze of deep color was the sash of the Legion of Honor which cut a diagonal bright red streak across her dress.

FASHION-CONSCIOUS

Elizabeth, with four changes of dress in 24 hours, showed herself fully alive to the importance of the clothes she is wearing during this visit to the fashion capital of the world.

Folk Song Singer Belafonte Weds

NEW YORK (AP)—Harry Belafonte, the suave singer of folk songs, said Tuesday he was married secretly March 8 to Julie Robinson at Tecate, Mexico. The Negro vocalist was divorced from the former Marguerite Byrd Feb. 28. The marriage is the first for Miss Robinson, a dancer.

TRANS-CANADA AIR LINES

IN VICTORIA DISTRICT

9% Drop Recorded In Cancer Cases

A 9 per cent decline in the number of new cases of cancer was noted in the last 12 months at Victoria Cancer Clinic.

There were 386 new cases in the period, compared to 424 the year previous, 370 the year before that and 325 the year before that.

The decrease followed a 36 per cent increase from 1952 to 1956.

HARD TO ANALYZE

Unfortunately, no one can tell whether the figures mean there is less cancer in the community or whether less people bothered to check danger signs which are easily ignored in the early stages.

Statisticians point to the death rate. Where 269 deaths were attributed to cancer in 1955, the grim total climbed to 279 last year.

Officials of the Conquer Cancer Campaign, now under way across Canada, can't explain the increase. There were over 20,000 new cases reported across Canada in 1955.

BLOCK IT

They are more interested in halting the disease than in measuring its spread.

The task has strained the resources of Victoria's cancer clinic at Royal Jubilee Hospital. There were 15,618 examinations and treatments provided by the clinic last year.

Dependent on the response to the public to the present fund-raising drive, the clinic hopes to expand its facilities this year and to install a Cobalt bomb.

But best weapon against cancer is understanding by the public that 35 per cent of cancer cases can be cured. Early detection of the disease stops its spread within the body and often means the difference between life and death.

Denmark Was Never Like This

By DINAH KERR

The Ericksens aren't talking to their neighbors yet — they can't.

The family of eight, who arrived from Denmark Friday, has one English-speaking member, father Olav, 39, and they look to him with pride as he answers questions with a decisive "nein" or "yah."

Their home at 469 Dupplin has enough beds to go around but not much else. The Ericksens brought only their "porcelain" and a few lamps with them and Mr. Ericksen, one of eight sons in a family of shipwrights, is looking for a job.

BROTHERS HERE

His only Canadian contact here is brother Julius, whose surname, spelled three different ways in official documents, has now become Erikson. Another brother Henry lives in Nanaimo, and a brother and sister are in Vancouver.

Mr. Erikson brought his family to Canada because "it is better living than in Denmark." In case someone might

MONTE ROBERTS

I guess you have been wondering whatever happened to my campaign to create a spoonerized pun as Victoria's joint centennial project.

I am wondering, too.

Because nothing much seems to be happening to my campaign for a spoonerized pun as Victoria's joint centennial project.

The only consolation is, nothing much seems to be happening to ANYONE's campaign for ANY joint centennial project.

But I must admit, some of the constituents are in there trying.

Such as the gentleman who called to ask if the following is a spoonerized pun:

A lady went into a church one Sunday, and before the Verger noticed her, she had taken a place halfway down the aisle.

As the Verger well knew, this particular pew was reserved for a family of long standing with, and respect in, this particular church.

Yet the Verger hated to disturb the lady, and he was a bit nervous when he spoke to her, thus:

"Mardon me, paddon, but this pie is occupied. May I sew you to another sheet?"

My answer is: The above is (a) spoonerized; (b) old; (c) I love it; and (d) NOT a pun.

At least, I don't think so.

But the incident undoubtedly occurred in the church described to me (by another spoonerizing constituent) as the "Lurch of the Chatter Say Daints."

Which is also spoonerized, but not a pun.

I am getting close to despair when I consider the project for a centennial spoonerized pun—yet I feel we must keep trying.

I can think of no monument to 100 years of progress in British Columbia fight as quitting as a spoonerized-pun.

Let us keep on fighting before we quit.

After all, that is what all the other people concerned with centennial projects are doing.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Steamer service between Victoria and Seattle will be cancelled for Tuesday, April 16, the CPR announced today.

The ship regularly employed in the service will be drydocked that day for propeller adjustment.

Victoria street cleaning department claims a pretty wide scope of operations, a city police constable found today.

Receiving information of a bloated, dead sheep corpse floating in the Inner Harbor below Evans Coleman and Johnson docks, he called the sanitation department for its removal.

"Not our line; try the street cleaners," he was told.

The sweepers were happy to oblige.

A 12-year-old girl reported to have fractured both legs in a traffic accident Monday afternoon was found on further examination at St. Joseph's Hospital to be only badly bruised, the hospital said today.

In good condition is Karen Johnson, 224 Simcoe, who was in collision with a car at Mont real and Superior.

Roger Patrick Brown, four, 490 Viaduct, is in good condition with a fractured leg at Jubilee Hospital, where he was taken after being in collision with a car Tuesday at 11.45 a.m. on Interurban near Viaduct.

Sanich police identified the driver as John C. Wetherall, 2805 Wyndett.

They said the child was playing with other youngsters near the roadside at a blind portion of Interurban and apparently moved into the roadway suddenly.

Most record collectors are afraid of needles which damage their records.

An exception is the lady who called at the record lending department at Victoria Public Library and said she hoped the records wouldn't damage her needles.

Lake Hill residents interested in construction of an Anglican church on St. Peter's Road will meet in the Women's Institute Hall, 3880 Quadra, Tuesday, April 16, at 8 p.m. Archbishop Harold E. Sexton will attend.

Condition of injured hockey player Pete Durham continues "good," it was reported today at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Durham, who suffered a dislocated neck when he crashed against the boards at Memorial Arena while his New Westminster Royals were playing Victoria Cougars March 28, is expected to remain in hospital for several more weeks.

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks was appointed today as acting minister of agriculture.

The appointment was made necessary by the death last week of Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd.

Mr. Wicks will hold the portfolio until a new minister is appointed by Premier Bennett, probably not until three provincial by-elections are held.

The Liberian registry freighter Eurytan entered government graving dock at Esquimalt today for a paint job and minor repairs.

'HEALTHY, LIVELY'

Queen Mother Loves Her Work

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Hon. David Bowes-Lyon, Queen Elizabeth's uncle, looked out over Victoria today from the sunny flower-decked gardens of Government House and said:

"It's not surprising so many of our people want to come out to this country."

He believes, however, that Britain's trade prospects are brighter, in spite of the drain on her resources caused by the Suez crisis, and there may be less incentive to leave the country.

"I believe the new budget will help restore initiative by easing the tax burden on the higher-income groups . . .

"Emigration to British countries is always desirable but we can't afford to lose too many of our most enterprising folk."

The smiling personality which made Queen Mother Elizabeth famous when as Queen she toured Canada in 1939 is largely reproduced in her younger brother (he is two years younger) and like the Queen Mother he has the gift of putting strangers at ease.

ENOJOYS TRAVEL

Of his sister he says:

"At 56 she is as lively as a two-year-old. She enjoys almost perfect health and never seems to get tired. What is more, she never loses interest in her work and enjoys travel."

He added that the Queen Mother will tour Southern Rhodesia this summer and is so fond of Canada "she is sure to come back here one of these days."

Mr. Bowes-Lyon, who is the sixth son of the 14th Earl of Strathmore, would not amplify his earlier statement that the Queen has "a jolly good reason" for visiting B.C. during its 1938 centennial year.

"You'll understand I can't make plans for Buckingham Palace. They would chop my head off . . . but I have no doubt the Queen would love to come and I would like to see her make the trip. She often talks of her last visit in 1951."

LOTS FOR BOTH

While air travel has cut into steamship travel in recent years, Mr. Bowes-Lyon says "there is lots of room for both at present because of the huge increase in travel generally."

Pointing out that Cunard has about 1,000,000 tons of shipping afloat, he said the Atlantic traffic is "brisk" with three new liners booked to capacity.

These are the Saxonia, Ivernia and Carinthia and a fourth Atlantic vessel is now on the stocks.

Accompanied by his attractive, dark-haired wife, Mr. Bowes-Lyon is on a three-week tour of Canada and the United States in connection with the Cunard Steamship Co., of which he is a director.

After a two-day visit with Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. Frank Ross, they intend to "see Canada properly" by taking the rail trip from Vancouver to Toronto.

He added optimistically that many British business men are getting tired of rushing around the world in planes and are returning to ocean travel because

TOTEM CHIP FOR UNCLE OF QUEEN

A chip of the totem pole now being carved at Thunderbird Park for presentation to Queen Elizabeth during B.C.'s 1938 centenary celebrations was presented today to Hon. David Bowes-Lyon, Queen Elizabeth's uncle.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowes-Lyon visited the workshop and chatted with Chief Mungo Martin, his son David and Henry Hunt who are carving the totem.

"You have a tall job on hand," smiled Mr. Bowes-Lyon as he shook hands with Mungo Martin.

"It gives them more time to think between trips."

Both keen gardeners, the visitors were enchanted by Victoria's brilliant display of daffodils and asked questions about the Island's flower industry.

At the close of the interview Mr. Bowes-Lyon apologized for saying "so little" but he went so far as to deny all reports of a "rift" between the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh.

"They are never apart except when separated by state duties. I have never seen a more devoted couple."

Mr. Jeffs said Bishop, Calif., is the only other place on the Pacific Coast which enjoys ideal gliding conditions.

"The gliding clubs at Bishop hold the world's altitude records because of the presence of standing waves in that area," he said.

Mr. Jeffs said a pilot flying a Lightning shortly after the war drew attention to the existence of standing waves. He found that his twin engine plane was able to climb 6,000 feet a minute in the air current.

The pilot switched off both engines and he found that he was able to climb without power to another 20,000 feet.

Weatherman William Mackie said it would seem that Mr. Jeffs' observations are "correct."

He said no records have been kept of the presence of lenticular clouds, but he had observed from time to time the peculiar shaped clouds.

ENOUGH INTEREST?

"I would be ready to start a club if there are enough people interested in plane sailing," he said. "It's easy. They teach it to pupils at schools in England."

Island Students To Get $5,600

IDEAL CONDITIONS

Gliding Club Proposed Here By Ex-Airman

A former Royal Air Force wing commander has made a major discovery in the sky over Victoria.

Russ Jeffs, AFC, assistant secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, has found that "lenticular" clouds—a cigar-shaped cloud—frequently forms over the city.

This may mean nothing to the average Victorian, but for anyone interested in the art of plane sailing, it means that Victoria could become the gliding mecca of the Pacific Northwest.

Lenticular clouds indicate the presence of "standing waves" a powerful air current which are a "must" for good gliding.

The current is essential for establishing world altitude records. A glider which gets into a standing wave can zoom in a matter of seconds to an altitude of 60,000 feet.

Mr. Russ, former secretary of the Royal Air Force Gliding and Soaring Club, is so enthusiastic about his find that he wants to start a gliding club.

National Research Council Announces Annual Prizes

Six Victoria and Island students have won a total of $5,600 in scholarships from the National Research Council of Canada for post-graduate research at Canadian universities.

Studentships of $1,200 each have been awarded to Rowland E. Grant, 27, of 1003 Amphion Street, and E. Harvey Richardson, 29, of 1954 Waterloo.

Studentship winner for his second consecutive year, Mr. Richardson is studying for his PhD degree in physics at the University of Toronto. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees in the subject at UBC.

UBC graduate with a master's degree in chemistry, Mr. Grant is in his first year of study for a doctorate.

Bursaries for $800 were granted to the following students, all graduating this year:

Victoria L. Bergbusch, 21, daughter of Rev. J. E. Bergbusch, 1372 Craigdarroch, for biology research at the University of Saskatchewan.

John R. Pritchard, 22, of 1251 Camrose, UBC engineering physics student for graduate work at UBC.

D. Malcolm Shrimpton, 22, of 2248 Edgelow Street, UBC botany student, for graduate work at UBC.

David J. Huntley, 20, of Sea Drive, Brentwood Bay, UBC engineering physics student, for graduate work at UBC.

LONGER CARS HIKE RATES ON FERRIES

The longer, lower look in automobiles is responsible for increased ferry rates between Victoria and U.S. points, a spokesman for the CPR's B.C. Coast Service said today.

He was answering criticism by Mayor Percy Scourah and publicity director George Warren against rate increases of $1 per car Seattle-Victoria and Port Angeles-Victoria.

The longer modern cars take up more space, cut down carrying capacity by up to 20 per cent," he said.

Increased rates are not necessary on the Nanaimo-Vancouver service because of more frequent service and greater capacity, the spokesman said.

Hopes Revived For Large-Scale Polio 'Shots'

Increased supplies of anti-polio Salk vaccine may permit a large-scale inoculation program in the Greater Victoria area this spring.

Victoria Medical Society, which was forced to abandon plans for a mass vaccination program for young adults because of a vaccine shortage a few weeks ago, now hopes to be able to go ahead again.

The society has written Connaught Laboratories in Toronto seeking a guarantee of enough vaccine to give two shots to 30,000 people.

A spokesman said today the outlook is "encouraging," but nothing will be set until the guarantee is obtained.

If supplies are made available, doctors will administer the vaccine at special clinics. Cost will be only $3—the cost of the vaccine.

The original scheme—aimed at inoculating an estimated 60,000 persons in the Greater Victoria area up to the age of 40—was dropped when the Eli Lilly Co. found at the last minute it was unable to supply the vaccine because of a sudden demand in the U.S.

Since that time Connaught Laboratories have stepped up production beyond that contracted to the government for inoculation of school children.

Q. On the numerous vacations we have spent on Cowichan Bay, we have been interested in the Negro settlement on Salt Spring Island. We have been informed Negroes there are descendants of slaves who escaped from our south during the Civil War and made their way to Canada. Mrs. D.E.B. Pasadena, Calif.

A. In 1858 between 400 and 800 Negroes came to Victoria from Oregon and California. In the same year a few families went from Victoria to Salt Spring Island. The Louis Starks, who settled on Salt Spring Island, were former slaves. They had moved from Mississippi to Oregon and from Oregon to Salt Spring Island.

Gaily-Patterned Plastic Covers Kitchen Appliances

By PENNY SAVER

Spring can come to your kitchen, adding sparkle and shine, just as it has come to the gardens. Flowers can bloom on your table, and in the cooking area... but these flowers will last for ages. They are the pattern on attractive appliance covers. In a plastic package (which can be used as a vegetable bag), is a mixer cover, a toaster cover and five bowl covers. Red posies on a white background decorate these plastic covers... all yours for $1.

To make your kitchen even sunnier, you can buy matching tablecloths of this same washable, long-wearing plastic. These are also $1.

Since we're restocking and shining up the pantry and kitchen, let's add some handy magnetic potholders. They're washable, of course, and permanently magnetic. They will stay firmly attached to any metal surface handy to the stove. Grey, with white trimming, the potholders are four for $1.

Oven mitts, that protect your whole hand when you're removing that roaster from the oven, are a special price of two pairs for $1 right now. Substantially quilted to keep out the heat and keep fingers from scorching, the mitts come in a gay print.

If thoughts of Easter candy gifts are nagging at your mind, perhaps these brightly colored candy eggs will help to fill the list. Youngsters love these eggs, with creamy, good-tasting centres. You can decorate cakes with them, use them as party treats, or decorate your holiday

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

About opening gifts: When I or any children receive a gift, is it proper to open it while the giver is present or after she leaves? I gave a wedding gift to a cousin and she did not open it until I left. On another occasion I delivered a baby present and the mother waited until I was gone before opening it. Do you address the package to the baby or to the mother or to both?

Louise Davis

parents when you mail a baby gift?

Louise Davis answers:

I see no reason why a person receiving a gift should wait until the giver departs before opening it unless there are other people around who might be embarrassed that they didn't give something. It's always such fun to open a present in the presence of the giver and it's fun for the giver, too. If the recipient is in doubt she can always ask, "Do you mind if I open this now?"

The situation of a wedding gift might be a little different. Most brides develop a system of opening gifts. To avoid confusion or error, many like to do their "bookkeeping" at the time they open packages and generally like to be alone or at least be able to take the time to finish the process.

It doesn't make much difference how a package to a baby is addressed. The information is more for the postman than anyone else. How about "Miss Mary Jane Boyd, care of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Boyd"? The contents and the enclosure card are what count.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Woman Needs Interests Outside Home for Full Life

Modern women are faced with complexities and decisions which their grandmothers never had to face. In the first place, many of them have jobs of some sort while single. These may be unglamorous and humdrum but they bring the woman in contact with the outside world and make her a part of a large production past the walls of her own home.

Then she marries and experiences the confinement which housekeeping and small children impose. The rewards in happiness she gets from her children are so much greater than any she could possibly derive from any sort of work or hobby that it is silly even to compare them. Her family comes first. However, this does not mean that she may not miss the companionship and stimulation of the outside business world.

Many women are made to feel guilty if they long for adult companionship or for some time away from their children. They are accused of "rejecting" their offspring if they hanker to "keep their hand in" or indulge some talent they have. Sometimes their families and public opinion insist that they give their lives over entirely to their children. The same sources call them "Moms" when the children are older and blame them for hanging on to their children after they are grown.

The Public Affairs pamphlet "The Modern Mother's Dilemma" emphasizes the fact that to be a complete mother one must also be a complete woman. To quote from this booklet, "For the sake of children and husband as well as for herself as a person, a woman must develop more than the housewifely and maternal side of her nature. Yet, simple though this may sound, it is not an easy thing to do. It is not easy to juggle time and energy and attention in an efficient way. It is not easy to keep one's goal clearly in sight through the myriad demands of home and children."

This need for something besides home and family is more crucial today than it once was. Women are living longer. They are staying young longer and are in the prime of life when their children leave home. Also the days of the large home with two or three generations under one roof are gone.

Today a woman is on her own emotionally from middle life on, and she has at least 25 years of active life left. What is she to do with it if she has given herself so wholly to her children that she has lost herself as a person?

If you would like the very interesting and helpful Public Affairs pamphlet "The Modern Mother's Dilemma" send 25 cents to this non-profit, educational organization at 22 East 38th Street, New York 16, N.Y.

Heryet-Harris Wedding In St. Alban's Church

Rev. W. Greenhalgh heard the wedding vows of Lorraine Gail Pauline Harris and John Michael Heryet in a double-ring ceremony recently in St. Alban's Church.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Heryet, a wedding gown of white nylon over net and taffeta, styled in ballerina length. Her headpiece of organza sprinkled with pearls held a veil of French illusion which misted to chapel length, and she carried a cascade of pink roses and white feathered carnations.

The bride's only attendant, Miss Dorothy Heryet, wore a light blue gown of embroidered cotton and carried a colonial bouquet of white and yellow carnations.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Heryet, had Ronald Heryet as his best man, Gerald Cruickshank as the usher.

Baskets of spring flowers were placed in the church and during the signing of the register. Mrs. A. Waddell sang "O Perfect Love."

A reception for 35 guests was held in the Old England Inn. Mr. and Mrs. Heryet will live at 1735 Denman Street.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions to select to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Denise McDermott, aged 10, of Visalia, Calif., for her question:

What Is a Plesiosaur?

His name is coined from two words meaning near and lizard. We may assume, then, that the plesiosaur is a lizard type animal. This was true, for he no longer exists. He lived in the days of the dinosaurs when the lizard clan reached its prime. From his fossil bones you might take him for some kind of sea monster, which is true. The plesiosaur was one of the sizable lizards who gave up life on the land and returned to the sea. Our sea monster looked like a strange combination of snake and turtle. He had a round, flat turtle body with four flippers for legs. His long, slender tail was sometimes decorated with a fin. Most outstanding was his long, snake-like neck, supported by 13 to 76 vertebrae, depending upon the variety of plesiosaur. The head was small, wedge-shaped and snake looking. Unlike most lizards, this sea monster's tough hide was without scales. Some varieties measured 18 feet from head to tail, others measured up to 40 feet.

The reptile clan dominated the earth during the Mesozoic Era. This chapter of Earth's history began about 185 million years in the past and ended some 60 million years ago when our own era began. It is divided into three smaller time periods, the Triassic, Jurassic and Cretaceous. During those 120 million years, the dinosaurs developed, thrived and perished. Some became monsters in the Triassic Period and perished long before the end of the era. Others developed later, in the Jurassic and Cretaceous Periods and survived until the final doom of the dinosaurs.

The ancestors of the plesiosaurs greeted the Mesozoic Era as land animals. They probably lived in and out of the waters around shallow seas. For this was a time of encroaching seas and shore waters teemed with soft bodied mollusks, sea urchins, crabs and other crustaceans.

The land was forested with horse tail trees, giant ferns, cycads, conifers and ginkgos. The first flowering plants had arrived and with them the first butterflies. The busy ants and countless beetles lived much as they do today. This is the land scenery which gave way to the encroaching seas.

Early in the era, the huge ichthyosaurus had gone to sea and succeeded as the fish-lizard. Somewhat later, the ancestors of the plesiosaur followed his example. Our turtle-snake lizard reached his prime in the Jurassic Period. He thrived in the seas around Europe 150 million years ago. By the Cretaceous Period, he was well adjusted to sea life. This left him better off than many of his land dwelling relatives. For during this last period of Mesozoic Era, the seas swamped much of Europe and half of North America.

Too bad but all the plesiosaur's success in coping with a changing world was doomed. For he perished from the earth some 60 million years ago, when the giant reptiles came to an end.

Andy sends a Hammond's International World Globe to Richard Zimmerman, aged 7, of Rochester, New York, for his question:

Are teeth bones?

Teeth were invented by an ancestor of the shark, millions and millions of years ago. To be on the safe side, this fellow grew teeth all over his body as well as in his mouth. These first teeth were small prongs made of soft pulp encased in shells of tough enamel. The modern shark is still a toothy fellow. Not only has he a mouthful of teeth, but he still wears small toothlets scattered through his skin.

Our teeth are also encased in shells of tough enamel. Under the shell of enamel is a hard stuff called dentine. Dentine is very much like ivory. In the centre of each tooth is a soft pulp full of nerves and blood vessels.

Enamel and dentine are special substances made only for teeth. Both are much harder and tougher than ordinary bones. Tooth enamel is the hardest material in the whole body. Bone will grow and knit itself together when broken. But not so the teeth. When a tooth is injured, it can never repair itself. This is why a check-up with the dentist every six months is so important. For when enamel or dentine decays, the body has no way of repairing the damage.

City Buildings To Be Inspected For New Wiring

About 400 downtown buildings will be surveyed by city electrical inspectors in the coming year before approval is given for linking them to the new B.C. Electric underground lighting system.

City electrical inspector M. Schwartz reported to council today an additional inspector and clerical help are required.

He says it is imperative a complete new electrical by-law be drafted in line with the provincial Electrical Energy Inspection Act.

15,000 Russians Rock To Elvis' Go Man Go

MOSCOW (AP) — Rock 'n' roll came to Moscow—Tuesday. There were no casualties.

It came during a packed opening of a month-long show being put on by an Austrian ice show troupe at the palace of sports in Moscow's new Lenin Stadium.

Fifteen thousand Russians attended, including some government officials and most of the diplomatic corps.

A 50-girl skating chorus ranged through cowboy and Indian numbers, traditional Viennese waltzes and a racy Apache dance sequence that had the Russians gasping in a mild state of shock.

Then the orchestra stopped and a loudspeaker blared Elvis Presley's recording of Go Man Go. The whole troupe rocked.

The Russians have heard a lot about rock 'n' roll from such authorities as ex-foreign minister Dmitri Shepilov, who blasted it before a recent composers' convention as "wild caveman orgies."

Mystery Grips Hollywood; Whose Oscar?

By ALINE MOSBY
UP HOLLYWOOD Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Every body from a dead man to a San Francisco movie fan has put in a claim for Hollywood's "homeless" Oscar, but producer Frank King still claims it belongs to a mysterious man named Robert Rich.

Rich was voted an Oscar for writing the best original movie story of 1956, "The Brave One," made by the King brothers. But when Rich wasn't in town to collect the award, movieland developed a first class who-who mystery—is Rich man or myth?

"I've received phone calls from more people," sighed King in his office before rushing off to New York. "One man in San Francisco claims he wrote it. So does a fellow in Salinas. A fellow in Boston swears his uncle wrote it before he died."

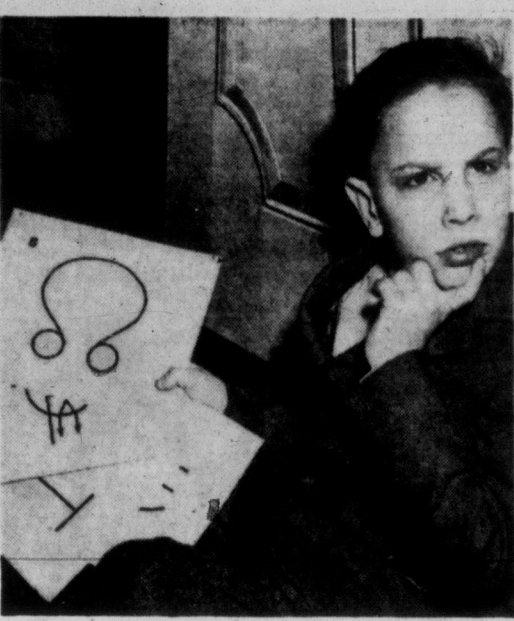

"We bought the story from Rich years ago, in Germany. We've sent wires all over Europe to track him down but no answer yet. My brother, Maury, is going to Europe in two weeks to advertise in the papers there for him."

Even the late Robert Flaherty has been named as the man who should get that Oscar. Topflight director Fred Zinneman reveals the deceased director wrote an identical story of a little Mexican boy and a bull, "Benito and the Bull," in Santa Fe, N. Mex., in 1928.

"Flaherty told me the story when we were in Germany in 1931," Zinneman said. "It may be pure coincidence."

PICTURE SHELVED
Flaherty, says Zinneman, later sold the story to Orson Welles. Welles says he filmed it as "My Friend Benito" in Mexico for RKO in 1945 but after a change in management "I was fired and the picture was shelved and written off as a tax loss."

"I have no hard feelings about it and I'm not suing," added Welles. "I'm glad that someone else had success with the story."

LEADS IN TV QUIZ SWEEPSTAKES — Robert Strom, 10-year-old science quiz kid from the Bronx, is in a thoughtful mood as he displays cards with some of the symbols involved in the complex four-part question on astronomy, mathematics, meteorology and electronics he answered Tuesday night to boost his TV quiz show winnings to $160,000. He appeared on "The $64,000 Question," and will return next Tuesday night to try for $192,000. He posed Theodore Nadler, winner of $152,000 on another show, as the biggest money-winner on a single television quiz show so far.—(AP wirephoto)

TO CRACK HOLLYWOOD MONOPOLY

British Film Makers Send Stars Over Here

NEW YORK (CP) — British movie makers have started a heavy calibre publicity barrage to pound the names of British film stars into the collective mind of the theatre-going public in Canada and the U.S.

Actor Kenneth More, who rose to stardom in Britain in the film Genevieve, led a first sortie into the bewildering world of American press agency.

Admitting British film producers in the past had been "too stuffy" in their exploitation of stars and products, More sallied through a dizzying round of press receptions, radio and television interviews, and public appearances.

LIMITED APPEARANCES

The J. Arthur Rank organization, producers of More's latest picture, Reach For the Sky, is one of the leaders in a drive by foreign movie makers to get a larger share of the U.S. movie market.

With few exceptions, the distribution of British films in the U.S. now is limited to the specialty or "art" theatres in major metropolitan centres.

Realizing that foreign films are difficult to sell without "name" stars, British and other foreign producers have started a program of bringing their top stars to the U.S. for publicity appearances.

FULL TREATMENT

More, a ruddy-faced Royal Navy veteran who in Reach For the Sky portrays Douglas Bader, the RAF's legless air ace of the Second World War, is the first of a number of British actors and actresses scheduled to get the full publicity treatment—American style.

Appearing at an early-morning breakfast reception after a busy night of interviews, More said: "We must dispel the idea some Americans have that British stars consider it beneath their dignity to answer the sort of questions U.S. stars have fired at them."

THREE PLAYS TONIGHT AT OAK BAY

Adjudicator Praises Acting At Drama Festival Opening

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON
One of the best opening nights in recent years marked the 1957 edition of the B.C. Drama Festival, South Vancouver Island Region, Tuesday at Oak Bay Junior High School.

Three plays presented for adjudication by Mrs. Lillie Harper of Vancouver were well contrasted and revealed a good standard of production and some highly commendable acting.

Poor play material was only discernible in the comedy offering, "Brass Tacks," by Vancouver's Eric Nicol. "The Cat," a drama, was rather an obvious propaganda piece but was tightly written and well done, while the final fantasy in the Chinese manner was visually charming and delightfully produced.

"Brass Tacks," by Eric Nicol. Presented by R.C. Government Employees' Players Guild.

Kim Fraser Grace Hudson
George Fraser Dennis Kershaw
Denise Warner Madeline Johnson
Allan Warner Russell Pierce
Director: Mary Keogh

Farce technique was demanded by this piece, Mrs. Harper considered, though she felt it was not fully achieved. She commended the director for being "aware of individuality in casting" and careful planning of the set.

She praised the vitality of Grace Hudson's acting and the immediate establishment of character by Dennis Kershaw.

"The Cat," by Bernard Prentice. Presented by Columbia Club.

Ma Rodden Vera Trueman
Joe Rodgers Clifford Clark
Bella Rodgers Marlene Dickson
Johnnie Davis Russell Gurney
Inspector Jarvis David Gilbert
Director: Dorothea House

This was a powerful and spine-tingling production, in the adjudicator's opinion. Careful direction had established tension and maintained it throughout, she said.

Mrs. Harper described Vera Trueman's performance as a "fine character study" and had high praise for Cliff Clark, whose vocal and character projection she commended as "excellent."

"He was aware of the need to co-ordinate voice, brain and body, and was always positive in his performance," she declared.

"A Battle of Wits," by Norman Williams. Presented by St. Luke's Players.

Chunglai Harry Luky
Madam Chung Susan Gibson
Silver Lotus Marlene Dickson
Sun Chu Russell Gurney
A Property Man Margaret Martin
A Worker L. E. Moutrey
An Attendant Paula Luky
Director: Flora Nicholson

Here was a play that needed a light touch and a sly humor in performance, Mrs. Harper said, as well as a strong sense of timing. It offered a great deal of scope for invention in movement.

She considered that this had been an efficient team. They had demonstrated a firm technical knowledge and the production had a musical rhythm and had moved smoothly and at good pace.

Beautiful, authentic costumes arranged by Bessie Tang, had delighted the audience and were warmly praised by the adjudicator.

In commending all members of the cast, Mrs. Harper singled out charming Marlene Dickson's performance for special praise. Of Margaret Martin, she remarked that "there was an example of imagination in movement."

Tonight's program at Oak Bay Junior High School, will again comprise three plays. These will be "Shaft and Shaft" and "Stewart Roach."

Danny Joannisse received his three-year service star.

Mike Banfield and Bill McLean were presented with their third-year Scout service star.

First Mt. Tormie Troop: Seventeen Scouts under Scoutmaster J. F. Cannon put a week-end camping in the Sooke area; Ben Seyward, geologist, accompanied them, showing them how to identify the different kinds of rocks and how to pan for gold.

Fire lighting and cooking tests were held as well as axeman and trail signs.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

Parkville Group: Scout Appreciation Night has been set for April 12 at 7.30 in the Parkville Community Hall. Entire program will be put on by Cubs and Scouts from all parts of the district and all residents are invited to attend.

Duncan-Chemlains District: Cubs and Scouts of the 1st Duncan group are holding a clean-up week from next Saturday, teams of two boys will call at private homes for the purpose of doing odd jobs.

At the conclusion of tasks assigned, the boys will invite householders to contribute to the Scout funds by placing money in a sealed can. The money realized will be used to further the organization.

Comox Group: A "Going-up" ceremony was held by the 2nd Comox (RCAF) pack when second star cubs Steven Samuels, Wayne Morley and Ronald Halk made their last promise as Cubs and moved on to the troop; Cubmaster Ted Yaeger passed them on to Scoutmaster Ron Hawkins who welcomed them into the troop and turned them over to the Patrol leaders for training.

View Royal Pack: District cubmaster Marge Coulter paid the pack a visit and presented Kay Cleghorne with her preliminary district training card.

Major Quake Hits Alaska Peninsula

An earthquake shock of "major intensity" was registered here at 3:33 a.m. today on the seismograph at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

It brought to 20 the number of severe shocks which have originated in the Aleutian Islands and Alaska in the past month. This one is believed centred on the Alaska Peninsula.

There were many other minor earth tremors.

On the Richter scale which registers earthquake intensity, the 3.33 "shake" was between 6½ to 7. An earthquake registering 8 is severe.

Canada Sends Strong Note To U.S. Over Norman Case

Eisenhower Blames U.S. Senate Probe

WASHINGTON (CP)—The Eisenhower administration today formally blamed the U.S. Senate internal subcommittee for airing charges of Communist ties made against Canadian diplomat E. Herbert Norman.

It did so in a note handed today to Canadian Ambassador Arnold Heeney. The state department made the note public.

The note, signed by Acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, said the U.S. government "deplores any development from any source either American or Canadian which might adversely affect" traditional friendship of the two countries.

President Eisenhower had taken a similar line at his press conference a few hours earlier. He said he hopes the controversy can be dropped and the fine, firm character of relations with Canada restored.

Herter said in the note to Canada:

"I wish to assure you that any derogatory information developed during hearings of the subcommittee was introduced into the record by the subcommittee on its own responsibility."

The state department also made public the text of the formal Canadian protest made March 18 about publication of the accusations.

Mount Tolmie Development Gets Go-Ahead

The provincial government has approved three new projects in the Greater Victoria area recommended by the Capital Improvement District Commission.

Total expenditure is estimated at $185,000, including a further $60,000 for further improvements to the Dallas Road waterfront.

The new projects:

Development of a lookout and parking facilities and improvement of road access at the summit of Mount Tolmie ($30,000);

Extension of Superior Street through the northern end of Beacon Hill Park to Heywood Avenue ($30,000); and Construction of an esplanade along Willows Beach in Oak Bay ($45,000).

OFFICIALS HAPPY

It was hailed by civic officials. Detailed estimates and surveys now are being pushed ahead by the municipalities concerned, and work is scheduled to get underway soon.

All projects are expected to be completed by the end of the year.

Full cost of the work will be paid for by the commission out of its $250,000 budget for 1957.

"We were very pleased with the results of the CIDC meeting," said Mayor Percy Scurreh. He is a member of the commission.

ESSENTIAL

"It will enable us to complete work started last year and to construct the park access road, which to my mind is an essential piece of work. I am pleased to see the Mount Tolmie project starting also."

City engineer James C. Garnett said no time would be lost in returning to the work started in 1956.

"Crews are moving in on the Dallas - Douglas intersection Thursday. Friday morning they will start on the Dallas project between Cook and Douglas."

New parking bays, new curbs and gutters and resurfacing constitutes the work here.

"Surveying is now underway for the new road across Beacon Hill Park," the engineer added.

HOUSES TO GO

It's completion, one of the main recommendations of the Faustman traffic report, will mean removal of two private dwellings. One fronts on Heywood and the other on Vancouver and they are back to back.

Once their removal is negotiated the new road will run from the east end of Superior, winding southeasterly through an undeveloped fringe of the park to join with Heywood at a point where a park road intersects. Heywood will then be joined with a short extension of Southgate, which is the section now blocked by the two homes.

Mr. Garnett felt final paving might be finished this fall.

He estimated its completion will take 30 per cent of the government employee traffic off Douglas and Government and allow freer access to the Buildings for persons living east of Cook Street.

The Dallas Road projects will complete a beautification job started two years ago under jurisdiction of the now-defunct Capital City Beautification Grant Committee. Last year, the first and only grant by the CIDC was $75,000 toward the same project.

SOVIET SUB STRENGTH SEVEN TIMES HITLER'S

OTTAWA (BUP)—The government warned today that Russia is concentrating on a major naval buildup and already has seven times as many submarines as Hitler at the start of the Second World War.

The report was contained in Defence Minister Ralph Campney's annual "green book" on defence, tabled in parliament.

(See also page 3)

OTTAWA (CP)—The navy and the RCAF this year will obtain a new air-to-water homing torpedo to meet the Russian submarine threat.

A report on national defence, tabled today in the Commons, repeatedly stresses that Canada must be able to defend itself against atomic missiles launched from submarines lying off its coasts.

So often is this subject referred to in the 60-page report, tabled by Defence Minister Campney, that it overshadows what has been the main theme for years of such annual reports—the air defence of Canada.

The new torpedo will be capable of being dropped from a navy or RCAF plane and homing on a submarine on or below the surface. The torpedo, in fact, is a guided missile.

The report—it would be called a white paper on defence except that it has a green cover—says in an opening discussion on policy:

"Soviet concentration on the buildup of a large submarine

fleet and the prospect of long-range submarines with a capability of launching atomic missiles from several hundred miles off shore has given an increased significance to the anti-submarine role of the maritime forces of NATO countries as a further essential element of the war deterrent."

"In this connection Canada is one of the principal countries providing maritime forces for the Supreme Allied Commander, Atlantic. The primary role of the Royal Canadian Navy has for some years been anti-submarine warfare in all its aspects."

"The latest appraisals of the threat at sea have resulted in a new emphasis by the RCN and the RCAF's maritime command on the development of forward operational systems and new techniques for locating and dealing with hostile submarines well away from our shores."

Steps Taken to Meet Menace

The report lists some of the steps taken to counteract this menace:

1. A four-year program to modernize radar equipment in major RCN ships is nearing completion but research must be continued in this field.

2. Production will be started "in the near future" in Canada of the new air-to-water homing torpedo.

3. The RCAF's new maritime patrol aircraft, the Argus, will begin flying operations this fiscal year.

4. An air navigation and tactical control system known as ANTAC, a unique Canadian development, has been tested and adapted for installation in the Argus.

5. The new aircraft carrier Bonaventure soon will join the Atlantic fleet at Halifax.

6. Deliveries of the Tracker, the navy's new anti-submarine aircraft, began in the latter part of 1956.

7. Successful experiments have been carried out in flying sub-spotting helicopters from a platform on a frigate.

On nuclear weapons, the report says the defence depart-

Protests Misuse Of Security Data, Asks Safeguards

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

OTTAWA—Canada today warned the United States it may refuse to supply the U.S. with security information on Canadian citizens unless those citizens are protected from unproved public charges.

External Affairs Minister Pearson said in the Commons that Arnold Heeney, Canadian ambassador to Washington, today handed a note to the U.S. state department which said:

"In view of the conduct of congressional investigations affecting Canadians, and because of its responsibility for taking every precaution in its power to protect Canadian citizens, the Canadian government requests that, in the reciprocal exchange of security information, the United States government give its assurance that none of its agencies or departments will pass such information to any committee, body or organization in the U.S. over which the executive branch of the U.S. government has no executive control, without the express consent of the Canadian government in each case . . ."

Definite Assurances Required

"Unless such an assurance can be given . . . the Canadian government must reserve the right in future not to supply security information concerning Canadian citizens to any U.S. government agency."

The Canadian action stems from the suicide in Cairo last week of Herbert Norman, Canadian ambassador to Egypt, against whom the U.S. senate internal security subcommittee recently revived old allegations of past Communist associations.

WINNIE'S FORMULA

Drinking, Eating, Sleeping

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill tonight gave the secret of his good health at 81 after severe illness and a momentous life:

"A lot of drinking, a lot of eating and eight or nine hours of sleep, most of it in the daytime."

The former prime minister told this to Dr. Masatoshi Matsuhashi of Japan who called on him tonight.

The Japanese university president said he found Churchill "looking good, although a little hard of hearing."

The note said Canada has more than once complained of methods employed by the subcommittee in releasing names of Canadians.

The names of Canadian officials should be sent in confidence to the Canadian government so that Canada could deal with the allegations.

Mr. Pearson said it was "intolerable" that an agency of a foreign government intervene in Canadian affairs in such a way to harass a Canadian citizen.

Mr. Pearson said he hoped it would not be necessary for Canada to exercise its right not to supply security information.

"I realize that nothing we could have done would have prevented the action taken against Mr. Norman by the United States senate subcommittee because the information which they gave out, covering allegations going back years and dealt with by this government years ago, was secured from other than Canadian sources," Pearson said.

"Nevertheless," he added, "this experience has emphasized that we should now take steps to ensure that information received from us on these matters could not possibly be used for wrong purposes against Canadians in the future."

"As the United States government knows, the Canadian gov-

Many uncertainties must be cleared before the St. Lawrence seaway opens its locks to the world 24 months from now.

A "pay-as-you-go" operation, the international waterway must charge tolls to write off its cost in 50 years. But what the charges will be—or, for that matter, how they will be levied—is still being negotiated by Canadian and United States toll committees.

Seaway Cost To U.S. Jumps

Congress Asked to Boost Borrowing to $140 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress was told Tuesday that "almost overnight" the cost of the U.S. portion of the St. Lawrence seaway jumped from $87,000,000 to $133,000,000.

... SEAWAY

Other major problems include mounting construction costs, the size of ships to be permitted to use the seaway, the question of bridge tolls, and harbor facilities at inland ports.

The future of Lionel Chevrier, president of Canada's St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, is said to be in the air. Political observers mention him for a cabinet post and say he may seek election in a Quebec constituency.

BILLION-DOLLAR SCHEME

The seaway and its affiliated power development in the International Rapids section west of Cornwall, Ont., now is expected to cost about $1,000,000,000. The authority's share, estimated four years ago at an outside $300,000,000, may climb to $350,000,000 before the project is completed. Its American counterpart, St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp., is said to need another $35,000,000 on top of an already approved $105,000,000.

At Cornwall, the New York state power authority and Ontario Hydro share the estimated $600,000,000 cost of building a 2,200,000-horse-power generating complex.

The inflated estimates complicate toll planning. But the issue is even more snarled by differing views held by Canada and the United States. Further discussions on the problems began in Washington last month.

Canada is said to want low tolls so that foreign shipping will find profitable the seaway route into the Great Lakes. Foreign ships will earn dollars for their countries, which in turn could be spent on Canadian goods. The Americans, with the Great Lakes-Europe route subsidized, said to prefer higher tolls to protect their shipping.

If a compromise is not reached, there could be two separate toll systems — a low rate through Canadian locks and a higher one through American locks.

USE BIG FACTOR

Tied to the 50-year limit on amortizing costs, the toll structure will depend largely on how much shipping uses the seaway. Estimates range around 30,000,000 tons a year during first year of operation. By 1965, it is expected to equal if not exceed that of the Panama Canal, now nearing 40,000,000 tons a year.

Tolls could be levied on tonnage, or commodities, or both. They could be a flat amount, or scaled to how far a ship sails up the seaway route. Largely unsettled, these issues leave room for further differences between the two countries.

The danger is that the St. Lawrence system may price itself out of the shipping market, as did the Panama Canal until increased traffic brought cheaper tolls.

Tolls will directly affect such bulk tonnage as prairie grain and Labrador iron ore — two major commodities expected to use the seaway. World shipping interests, already sending small vessels into the Great Lakes in increasing numbers, also await word on tolls and ship dimensions.

IMPROVE PARKS

City parks administrator Herbert Warren welcomed the planned new road across Beacon Hill Park.

"I think it will improve the park. I've been hoping it would come for 20 years."

He felt the new road eventually would be the main access to the park and would be joined by one of the roads now threading the park.

Reeve Fred Norris said he was pleased with the announcement on the Willows Beach esplanade.

"It would have been a long time before the municipality could have done it," he said.

Plans submitted to the Commission by the municipality had included improvements to Willows Park, but the government apparently feels parks should be the responsibility of local governments, Mr. Norris said.

The corporation, headed by Lewis G. Castle, is the agency created by Congress to construct and maintain the American section of the seaway, now scheduled for completion in early 1959.

Castle testified before a sometimes critical House of Representatives public works committee in support of the additional borrowing authority.

BORROW OR ELSE

The seaway construction costs are to be amortized over a 50-year period through tolls on shipping.

Castle said seaway traffic "in the not too distant future" would reach 50,000,000 to 55,000,000 tons a year and from that point on "it (amortization) would be a breeze." He estimated 1960 as the first peak traffic year.

Castle was asked what would be the result if Congress would not grant the request for the $35,000,000 additional borrowing power.

"There'll be no project," Castle said.

VODKA FLOWS FOR 600 GUESTS

Russ Embassy Housewarming Falls Short of Social Triumph

OTTAWA (CP)—The big, new Russian Embassy, a square chunk of limestone at the edge of the Rideau River, goes into a life of routine today after a gay housewarming in which it was toasted in gallons of vodka, champagne and other spirits.

About 600 guests, including Trade Minister Howe and Mr. Justice Abbot of the Supreme Court of Canada, turned up Tuesday night to help Soviet Ambassador Dmitri Chuvahin warm up the rather forbidding new structure erected on the ashes of one destroyed by fire 16 months ago.

And while the ambassador appeared extremely pleased with the turnout, the affair seemed to fall short of being one of the big social whirls of the season.

FRIENDSHIP BID

Ghosts of the Hungarian revolt and the Russian bloodshed in Budapest seemed to be about. There was only one cabinet minister present. Prime Minister St. Laurent sent Mr. Chuvahin what was reported as a warm personal letter of congratulations on the new building but the prime minister did not turn up.

Of the Big Three—United States, Britain and France—only the French ambassador, Francis Lacoste, showed up. Russians were everywhere. While the women entertained guests with Russian songs and dances, the men moved about ernment finds the procedures actually adopted by the subcommittee with respect to Canadians difficult to understand, unfair and indeed intolerable," Mr. Pearson said.

"The Canadian government therefore requests again that these procedures be altered insofar as Canadians are concerned along the lines indicated above."

The note said the Canadian government had "a duty to protect Canadian citizens by all means legally at its disposal from unwarranted interference by any foreign government."

It added: "There is little that the Canadian government can do, however, to make this protection effective for those Canadian citizens, whose names are made public by congressional committees, unless it is able to secure the co-operation of the United States government."

"The United States government is aware that the appropriate security agencies of the two governments have in the past exchanged security information on a reciprocal basis when such information formed part of an investigation important to the security of either country."

PRECAUTIONS

"This reciprocal exchange of information has assisted substantially in maintaining the security of our two countries, and the Canadian government is not suggesting that it has been improperly used by the security agencies in the United States with which this exchange takes place."

"Nevertheless the Canadian government must take every precaution which lies within its power to protect Canadian citizens from the danger of this information falling into the hands of persons who might use it without any sense of responsibility or fairness, or regard for the rights of Canadian citizens, within the jurisdiction of Canada."

"The Canadian government for its part assures the United States government that any security information on United States citizens supplied by United States agencies to the security agency of the Canadian government, will be given similar protection in Canada to that requested with respect to security information about Canadians from the United States government."

Ontario Beauty Could Be Honey To Lure Sasquatch from Hiding

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS (CP)—A young lady, unmarried too, is interested in British Columbia's proposed Sasquatch hunt.

The legendary giants are supposed to inhabit the mountains around this resort area, 80 miles northeast of Vancouver. A young Swiss mountaineer, convinced of the creatures' existence, wants to lead a hunt as part of B.C.'s centennial celebrations next year.

The Harrison Hot Springs centennial committee decided Tuesday night to file formal application for the search with provincial authorities.

And they also considered a letter from Peggy Sloan, 21, of Virgilatown, Ont., 22 miles east of Kirkland Lake near the Quebec border.

Miss Sloan wrote that she is "fascinated" by what she's read in the papers so far about the Sasquatch and wants to hear more from Rene Dahinden, 26, who proposes the search.

Paul Trout, a member of the Harrison committee, commented:

"It's pretty rugged country where the hunt will be taking place, but maybe if there was a girl in the party the Sasquatch might be more likely to come out of hiding."

merce in this Yukon city voted to put this resolution on record Monday night:

"Sasquatch, come home. All is forgiven."

The Jaycees say a Sasquatch would pass unnoticed in this territory because "the Yukon way of life allows for individual differences and

Doug Peden OUTDOOR REPORT

Since his appointment as minister of the new provincial department of recreation and conservation, Earle C. Westwood has made it clear that the planned program of parks development will not be delayed by the problems of integrating his new department.

And Dr. David Turner, who will be acting as deputy minister of the department, has stressed tourist potential and the growth of power boating in B.C.

So far, we have heard little about plans for our fish and game resources, and it is to be hoped that the economic and recreational value of wildlife to our province will not be overlooked.

But while B.C.'s army of anglers and hunters is watching to see what plans are in store for the game branch, which, incidentally, is the only one that pays its own way in the new department, what is of more immediate interest to this corner are Mr. Westwood's remarks on modern living.

He sees untold possibilities for the new department "since its formation ties in so well with the fact that the age of automation is advancing, giving us more leisure time."

It might be pointed out that the age of automation hasn't advanced very far into the ranks of the enforcement officers of his big game branch.

Let's look at a few of the reasons it has been said here before that our game wardens are both overworked and underpaid.

In 1936, when there were 35,490 licenced hunters in B.C., there were eight game wardens and an inspector in the Vancouver Island division of the game department. Last year the province's licenced hunters climbed past the 100,000 mark; yet only seven men have been expected to handle enforcement chores on the island for the past six months.

Under the present set-up, a game warden is on duty six days a week, including Sundays and holidays. And his work isn't always over when he goes home. He is on call 24 hours a day, always liable to be called out at night or in the middle of his day off.

For him, a 60-hour week appears to be an expected average. And he receives less pay than most who do a comparable job while toiling 40 hours.

Fortunately, all the game wardens I have met like their job and thus seldom complain about their hours. However, it will be surprising if some are not forced to turn their talents to other fields if a salary increase is delayed much longer. They like to eat steak once in a while, too.

Since it takes a man a long time to absorb the experience necessary to become a good game warden, and since few young men are looking to the game branch as a good place to start a career, it seems wise to make an effort to keep the men we have. The new department could do worse than make a quick survey of conditions in its game branch.

SHORT SHOTS—Members of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association neglected to make suggestions for Canada geese, snow geese, Wilson's snipe and coots when they voted on recommendations for this year's game-bird seasons at their Monday night meeting. . . . second of a series of fly-casting and spinning classes being staged by the game club will be held at the Dallas Road yacht pool Saturday morning from 9 to 12. All anglers are invited to attend. . . . a ham and bacon shoot is scheduled at Victoria Gun Club, Albert Head Road, Sunday afternoon.

Players Answer Managers' Beefs

By The Associated Press
Managers of four big league clubs who have criticized aspects of their teams recently got their answers Tuesday.

Bob Scheffing of Chicago Cubs, after complaining about his pitching staff, watched young Moe Drabowsky fire a five-hitter in Dallas as the Cubs whipped Baltimore Orioles, 8-3, in a game shortened to eight innings by agreement.

Bill Rigney of New York Giants, also concerned about pitching, got steady performances from Al Worthington and Joe Margoneri in a 4-2 victory over Cleveland Indians.

Wally Post slammed two homers and Ted Kluszewski and Gus Bell one apiece as Cincinnati Redlegs outscored Washington, 9-7, at Knoxville, Tenn. Before the game, Cincy manager Birdie Tebbets said he wondered when he would get some hitting from Post, Bell and Big Klu.

DODGERS EDGE BRAVES
Brooklyn manager Walter Alston had popped up with a rare complaint—worry that the Dodgers had been losing so often to Milwaukee he feared it might be habit-forming. Presto! The Dodgers scored four runs in the last of the ninth to beat the Braves, 5-4, at Tulsa.

New York Yankees rallied to defeat Jacksonville of the Sally League, 5-4; Chicago White Sox nipped St. Louis, 6-5, at Lynchburg, Va., and Little Rock of the Southern Association surprised the Kansas City Athletics, 5-4, at Little Rock in other games.

Dodgers, who had lost four straight to Milwaukee and six of nine played this spring, trailed 4-1, entering the last of the ninth. Carl Furillo and Roy Campanella drove in runs before Charley Neal won it with a two-run double. Eddie Mathews homered for Milwaukee.

Mickey Mantle (his fifth) and Andy Carey hit home runs to feature Yanks' victory, with Carey's two-run blow deciding the game in the eighth inning.

GIANTS CUT SQUAD
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—New York Giants Tuesday cut four players from their roster, including veteran infielder-outfielder Henry Thompson.

Thompson, a regular with the Giants since 1949, was sold outright to the club's Minneapolis farm in the American Association. Shortstop Eddie Bressour and pitchers Jom Constable and Fernando Rodriguez went to Minneapolis on option.

INTERNATIONAL FLAVOR

Spokane Flyers Gain Cup Final

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (CP)—An international Allan Cup final is in the offing as a result of Spokane Flyers' 4-2 win Tuesday night over Fort William Beavers that gave the American club their best-of-seven Western Canada senior hockey semi-final 4-2 with one game tied.

Spokane now will meet either Whitty or North Bay for the cup. They started on the Allan Cup trail by beating Trail, B.C., for the Western International League championship.

The Beavers put up a stubborn battle before being eliminated. Twice they came from behind to tie the score, making it 1-1 at the end of the first period and 2-2 at the end of the second. Then the Spokane club came up with the winner and insurance marker in the third.

The Flyers' marksmen were Art Jones in the first period, William Tie Beattie in the second and John Zahara and Tom Hodges in the third. Steve Black and Buck Forslund scored for Fort William.

Babe Ruth League Holds Registration

Vic High Captures Chess Title
Victoria High School won the Victoria Secondary Schools Chess Tournament on Tuesday as their six-man team downed S. J. Willis Junior High School, 4-2, in the third round of the finals.

Vic High had previously won the second match of the best-of-three series, 4½-1½, after drawing the first round with the junior high players, 3-3. Win gave the Vics the Baines Lewis Trophy, won last year by S. J. Willis as the tournament was staged for the first time.

A one-loss-elimination affair, the tournament was also contested by teams from Oak Bay and Mount View High Schools and Lansdowne, Oak Bay and Central Junior Highs.

Third-round results follow:
John Gansen (SJV) w.f. Fred Comer; Richard Everett (SJV) w.f. Walter Crowl; Jeffrey King (VHS) w.f. Ken McCartney; Harry Saunders (VHS) w.f. Zane Lewis; Ian Smith (VHS) w.f. Bill Johnston; Keith Louie (VHS) w.f. Craig McTavish.

Jimmy Wells and Harvey Hurd, Canadian Junior champion from Victoria, were blanked when they met the powerful Danish team of Finn Kobbero and Jorgen Hamersgaard Hansen in the second round of open doubles play in the United States badminton championships at Spokane Tuesday.

After winning their first-round matches Monday the Victoria duo were "skunked" 15-0, 15-0, by the high-powered Danes.

Denmark Was Never Like This

By DINAH KERR

The Ericksons aren't talking to their neighbors yet — they can't.

The family of eight, who arrived from Denmark Friday, has one English-speaking member, father Olaf, 39, and they look to him with pride as he answers questions with a decisive "nein" or "yah."

Their home at 469 Dupplin has enough beds to go around but not much else. The Ericksons brought only their "porcelain" and a few lamps with them and Mr. Erickson, one of eight sons in a family of shipwrights, is looking for a job.

BROTHERS HERE

His only Canadian contact here is brother Julius, whose surname, spelled three different ways in official documents, has now become Erikson. Another brother Henry lives in Nanaimo, and a brother and sister are in Vancouver.

Mr. Erickson brought his family to Canada because "it is better living than in Denmark." In case someone might

MONTE ROBERTS

I guess you have been wondering whatever happened to my campaign to create a spoonerized pun as Victoria's joint centennial project.

I am wondering, too.

Because nothing much seems to be happening to my campaign for a spoonerized pun as Victoria's joint centennial project.

The only consolation is, nothing much seems to be happening to ANYONE's campaign for ANY joint centennial project.

But I must admit, some of the constituents are in there trying.

Such as the gentleman who called to ask if the following is a spoonerized pun:

A lady went into a church one Sunday, and before the Verger noticed her, she had taken a place halfway down the aisle.

As the Verger well knew, this particular pew was reserved for a family of long standing with, and respect in, this particular church.

Yet the Verger hated to disturb the lady, and he was a bit nervous when he spoke to her, thus:

"Mardon me, paddon, but this pie is occupied. May I sew you to another sheet?"

My answer is: The above is (a) spoonerized; (b) old; (c) I love it; and (d) NOT a pun. At least, I don't think so.

But the incident undoubtedly occurred in the church described to me (by another spoonerizing constituent) as the "Lurch of the Chatter Say Daints."

Which is also spoonerized, but not a pun. I am getting close to despair when I consider the project for a centennial spoonerized pun—yet I feel we must keep trying.

I can think of no monument to 100 years of progress in British Columbia fight as quitting as a spoonerized pun.

Let us keep on fighting before we quit. After all, that is what all the other people concerned with centennial projects are doing.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Steamer service between Victoria and Seattle will be cancelled for Tuesday, April 16, the CPR announced today.

The ship regularly employed in the service will be drydocked that day for propeller adjustment.

Meeting tonight of the Victoria Section, B.C. Historical Association, will be held in the Douglas Building, cafeteria of the Legislative Buildings instead of the Provincial Library. Speaker at the meeting, to start at 8:15 p.m., will be architect Peter Cotton.

Fire Quelled Atop Tank for Fuel Storage

Sparks from a welder's torch are believed to have started a fire atop a fuel storage tank in Shell Oil Co. of Canada Ltd. storage yard on Industrial Reserve at about 8:15 a.m. today.

Welders were working on a new tank adjacent to a tank containing fuel. A vent at the top of the full tank was plugged with sack to minimize danger of fumes catching fire from the torch nearby.

Sacking material caught fire, but there was no damage to the tank, firemen said.

Fire chief Frank Briers said the harbor was at no time in danger. Even if the tank had become fully ignited, it is so located as to be in a giant dyked saucer which would have held the liquid fuel while it burned. All such tanks are required to be built with such precautions, he stated.

Victoria street cleaning department claims a pretty wide scope of operations, a city police constable found today.

Receiving information of a bloated, dead sheep corpse floating in the Inner Harbor below Evans Coleman and Johnson dock, he called the sanitation department for its removal.

"Not our line; try the street cleaners," he was told.

The sweepers were happy to oblige.

A 12-year-old girl reported to have fractured both legs in a traffic accident Monday afternoon was found on further examination at St. Joseph's Hospital to be only badly bruised, the hospital said today.

In good condition is Karen Johnson, 224 Simcoe, who was in collision with a car at Mont real and Superior.

Roger Patrick Brown, four, 490 Viaduct, is in good condition with a fractured leg at Jubilee Hospital, where he was taken after being in collision with a car Tuesday at 11:45 a.m. on Interurban near Viaduct.

Saanich police identified the driver as John C. Wetherall, 2805 Wyndevatt.

They said the child was playing with other youngsters near the roadside at a blind portion of Interurban and apparently moved into the roadway suddenly.

Most record collectors are afraid of needles which damage their records.

An exception is the lady who called at the record lending department at Victoria Public Library and said she hoped the records wouldn't damage her needles.

Lake Hill residents interested in construction of an Anglican church on St. Peter's Road will meet in the Women's Institute Hall, 3880 Quadra, Tuesday, April 16, at 8 p.m. Archbishop Harold E. Sexton will attend.

Condition of injured hockey player Peter Durham continues "good," it was reported today at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Durham, who suffered a dislocated neck when he crashed against the boards at Memorial Arena while his New Westminster Royals were playing Victoria Cougars March 28, is expected to remain in hospital for several more weeks.

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks was appointed today as acting minister of agriculture.

The appointment was made necessary by the death last week of Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd.

Mr. Wicks will hold the portfolio until a new minister is appointed by Premier Bennett, probably not until three provincial by-elections are held.

The Liberian registry freighter Eurytan entered government graving dock at Esquimalt today for a paint job and minor repairs.

Hon. David Bowes-Lyon, Queen Elizabeth's uncle, looked out over Victoria today from the sunny flower-decked gardens of Government House and said:

"It's not surprising so many of our people want to come out to this country."

He believes, however, that Britain's trade prospects are brighter, in spite of the drain on her resources caused by the Suez crisis, and there may be less incentive to leave the country.

"I believe the new budget will help restore initiative by easing the tax burden on the higher-income groups..."

"Emigration to British countries is always desirable but we can't afford to lose too many of our most enterprising folk."

The smiling personality which made Queen Mother Elizabeth famous when as Queen she toured Canada in 1939 is largely reproduced in her younger brother (he is two years younger) and like the Queen Mother he has the gift of putting strangers at ease.

ENJOYS TRAVEL

Of his sister he says: "At 56 she is as lively as a two-year-old. She enjoys almost perfect health and never seems to get tired. What is more, she never loses interest in her work and enjoys travel."

He added that the Queen Mother will tour Southern Rhodesia this summer and is so fond of Canada "she is sure to come back here one of these days."

Mr. Bowes-Lyon, who is the sixth son of the 14th Earl of Strathmore, would not amplify his earlier statement that the Queen has "a jolly good reason" for visiting B.C. during its 1958 centennial year.

"You'll understand I can't make plans for Buckingham Palace. They would chop my head off... but I have no doubt the Queen would love to come and I would like to see her make the trip. She often talks of her last visit in 1951."

LOTS FOR BOTH

While air travel has cut into steamer travel in recent years, Mr. Bowes-Lyon says "there is lots of room for both at present because of the huge increase in travel generally."

Pointing out that Cunard has about 1,000,000 tons of shipping afloat, he said the Atlantic traffic is "brisk" with three new liners booked to capacity. These are the Saxonia, Ivernia and Carinthia and a fourth Atlantic vessel is now on the stocks.

Accompanied by his attractive dark-haired wife, Mr. Bowes-Lyon is on a three-week tour of Canada and the United States in connection with the Cunard Steamship Co., of which he is a director.

After a two-day visit with Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. Frank Ross, they intend to "see Canada properly" by taking the rail trip from Vancouver to Toronto.

He added optimistically that many British business men are getting tired of rushing around the world in planes and are returning to ocean travel because

TOTEM CHIP FOR UNCLE OF QUEEN

A chip of the totem pole now being carved at Thunderbird Park for presentation to Queen Elizabeth during B.C.'s 1958 centennial celebrations was presented today to Hon. David Bowes-Lyon, Queen Elizabeth's uncle.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowes-Lyon visited the workshop and chatted with Chief Mungo Martin, his son David and Henry Hunt who are carving the totem.

"You have a tall job on hand," smiled Mr. Bowes-Lyon as he shook hands with Mungo Martin.

"It gives them more time to think between trips."

Both keen gardeners, the visitors were enchanted by Victoria's brilliant display of daffodils and asked questions about the Island's flower industry.

Mr. Jeffs said a pilot flying a Lightning shortly after the war drew attention to the existence of standing waves. He found that his twin-engine plane was able to climb 6,000 feet a minute in the air current.

The pilot switched off both engines and he found that he was able to climb without power to another 20,000 feet.

Weatherman William Mackie said it would seem that Mr. Jeffs' observations are "correct."

He said no records have been kept of the presence of lenticular clouds, but he had observed from time to time the peculiar shaped clouds.

Island Students To Get $5,600

IDEAL CONDITIONS

Gliding Club Proposed Here By Ex-Airman

A former Royal Air Force wing commander has made a major discovery in the sky over Victoria.

Russ Jeffs, AFC, assistant secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, has found that "lenticular" clouds—a cigar-shaped cloud—frequently forms over the city.

This may mean nothing to the average Victorian, but for anyone interested in the art of plane sailing, it means that Victoria could become the gliding mecca of the Pacific Northwest.

Lenticular clouds indicate the presence of "standing waves" a powerful air current which are a "must" for good gliding.

The current is essential for establishing world altitude records. A glider which gets into a standing wave can zoom in a matter of seconds to an altitude of 60,000 feet.

Mr. Russ, former secretary of the Royal Air Force Gliding and Soaring Club, is so enthusiastic about his find that he wants to start a gliding club.

ENOUGH INTEREST?

"I would be ready to start a club if there are enough people interested in plane sailing," he said. "It's easy. They teach it to pupils at schools in England."

Mr. Jeffs said Bishop, Calif., is the only other place on the Pacific Coast which enjoys ideal gliding conditions.

"The gliding clubs at Bishop hold the world's altitude records because of the presence of standing waves in that area," he said.

Mr. Jeffs said a pilot flying a Lightning shortly after the war drew attention to the existence of standing waves. He found that his twin-engine plane was able to climb 6,000 feet a minute in the air current.

The pilot switched off both engines and he found that he was able to climb without power to another 20,000 feet.

SHOPPING GUIDE

By PENNY SAVER

Spring can come to your kitchen, adding sparkle and shine, just as it has come to the gardens. Flowers can bloom on your table, and in the cooking area... but these flowers will last for ages. They are the pattern on attractive appliance covers. In a plastic package (which can be used as a vegetable bag), is a mixer cover, a toaster cover and five bowl covers. Red posies on a white background decorate these plastic covers... all yours for $1.

To make your kitchen even sunnier, you can buy matching tablecloths of this same washable, long-wearing plastic. These are also $1.

Since we're restocking and shining up the pantry and kitchen, let's add some handy magnetic potholders. They're washable, of course, and permanently magnetic. They will stay firmly attached to any metal surface handy to the stove. Grey, with white trimming, the potholders are four for $1.

Oven mitts, that protect your whole hand when you're removing that roaster from the oven, are a special price of two pairs for $1 right now. Substantially quilted to keep out the heat and keep fingers from scorching, the mitts come in a gay print.

If thoughts of Easter candy gifts are nagging at your mind, perhaps these brightly colored candy eggs will help to fill the list. Youngsters love these eggs, with creamy, good-tasting centres. You can decorate cakes with them, use them as party treats, or decorate your holiday

On Etiquette

About opening gifts: When I or my children receive a gift, is it proper to open it while the giver is present or after she leaves? I gave a wedding gift to a cousin and she did not open it until I left. On another occasion I delivered a baby present and the mother waited until I was gone before opening it. Do you address the package to the baby or to the mother or to both?

parents when you mail a baby gift?

Louise Davis answers: I see no reason why a person receiving a gift should wait until the giver departs before opening it unless there are other people around who might be embarrassed that they didn't give something. It's always such fun to open a present in the presence of the giver and it's fun for the giver, too. If the recipient is in doubt she can always ask, "Do you mind if I open this now?"

The situation of a wedding gift might be a little different. Most brides develop a system of opening gifts. To avoid confusion or error, many like to do their "bookkeeping" at the time they open packages and generally like to be alone or at least be able to take the time to finish the process.

It doesn't make much difference how a package to a baby is addressed. The information is more for the postman than anyone else. How about "Miss Mary Jane Boyd, care of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Boyd"? The contents and the enclosure card are what count.

Luncheon — Rotary Ann monthly luncheon was held at the YWCA, Thursday. A special guest was Mrs. L. V. Bryant, honorary Rotarian from Peterborough, Eng. Warwick Angus, guest speaker, told of work he is doing with the Dale Carnegie course at the B.C. Penitentiary.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Woman Needs Interests Outside Home for Full Life

Modern women are faced with complexities and decisions which their grandmothers never had to face. In the first place, many of them have jobs of some sort while single. These may be unglamorous and humdrum but they bring the woman in contact with the outside world and make her a part of a large production past the walls of her own home.

Then she marries and experiences the confinement which housekeeping and small children impose. The rewards in happiness she gets from her children are so much greater than any she could possibly derive from any sort of work or hobby that it is silly even to compare them. Her family comes first. However, this does not mean that she may not miss the companionship and stimulation of the outside business world.

Many women are made to feel guilty if they long for adult companionship or for some time away from their children. They are accused of "rejecting" their offspring if they hanker to "keep their hands in" or indulge some talent they have. Sometimes their families and public opinion insist that they give their lives over entirely to their children. The same sources call them "Moms" when the children are older and blame them for hanging on to their children after they are grown.

The Public Affairs pamphlet "The Modern Mother's Dilemma" emphasizes the fact that to be a complete mother one must also be a complete woman. To quote from this booklet, "For the sake of children and husband as well as for herself as a person, a woman must develop more than the housewife and maternal side of her nature. Yet, simple though this may sound, it is not an easy thing to do. It is not easy to juggle time and energy and attention in an efficient way. It is not easy to keep one's goal clearly in sight through the myriad demands of home and children."

This need for something besides home and family is more crucial today than it once was. Women are living longer. They are staying young longer and are in the prime of life when their children leave home. Also the days of the large home with two or three generations under one roof are gone.

Today a woman is on her own emotionally from middle life on, and she has at least 25 years of active life left. What is she to do with it if she has given herself so wholly to her children that she has lost herself as a person?

If you would like the very interesting and helpful Public Affairs pamphlet "The Modern Mother's Dilemma" send 25 cents to this non-profit, educational organization at 22 East 38th Street, New York 16, N.Y.

Mount Tolmie Development Gets Go-Ahead

The provincial government has approved three new projects in the Greater Victoria area recommended by the Capital Improvement District Commission.

Total expenditure is estimated at $185,000, including a further $60,000 for further improvements to the Dallas Road waterfront.

The new projects: Development of a lookout and parking facilities and improvement of road access at the summit of Mount Tolmie ($30,000); Extension of Superior Street through the northern end of Beacon Hill Park to Heywood Avenue ($50,000); and Construction of an esplanade along Willows Beach in Oak Bay ($45,000).

Announcement was made today by R. A. Pennington, chairman of the commission, which met Tuesday.

It was hailed by civic officials. Detailed estimates and surveys now are being pushed ahead by the municipalities concerned, and work is scheduled to get underway soon.

City engineer James C. Garneit said no time would be lost in returning to the work started in 1956.

Canada Gears Against Russ Sub Threat

(See also page 3)

OTTAWA (CP)—The navy and the RCAF this year will obtain a new air-to-water homing torpedo to meet the Russian submarine threat.

A report on national defence, tabled today in the Commons, repeatedly stresses that Canada must be able to defend itself against atomic missiles launched from submarines lying off its coasts.

So often is this subject referred to in the 60-page report, tabled by Defence Minister Campney, that it overshadows what has been the main theme for years of such annual reports—the air defence of Canada.

It brought to 20 the number of severe shocks which have originated in the Aleutian Islands and Alaska in the past month. This one is believed centred on the Alaska Peninsula.

There were many other minor earth tremors.

On the Richter scale which registers earthquake intensity, the 3.33 "shake" was between 6½ to 7. An earthquake registering 8 is severe.

NOT FELT HERE

The earthquake was not felt in Victoria.

But it was of sufficient structure to be picked up on seismographs all over the world, the Canadian Press said.

The way "shakes" travel, it was between three and four minutes before it registered here; to be noted in South Africa would take about 20 minutes.

Last month a tidal wave resulted from one of the quakes. The wave hit the Hawaiian Islands. Skyscrapers in San Francisco swayed from another tremor.

The latest quake recorded for three and one-half hours.

A comparatively insignificant tremor was also recorded at 9:18 Tuesday night.

Protests Misuse Of Security Data, Asks Safeguards

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

OTTAWA—Canada today warned the United States in a sharp note it may refuse to supply the U.S. with security information on Canadian citizens unless those citizens are protected from unproved public charges.

External Affairs Minister Pearson said in the Commons that Arnold Heeney, Canadian ambassador to Washington, today handed a note to the U.S. state department which said:

"In view of the conduct of congressional investigations affecting Canadians, and because of its responsibility for taking every precaution in its power to protect Canadian citizens, the Canadian government requests that, in the reciprocal exchange of security information, the United States government give its assurance that none of its agencies or departments will pass such information to any committee, body or organization in the U.S. over which the executive branch of the U.S. government has no executive control, without the express consent of the Canadian government in each case ...

Definite Assurances Required

"Unless such an assurance can be given ... the Canadian government must reserve the right in future not to supply security information concerning Canadian citizens to any U.S. government agency."

The Canadian action stems from the suicide in Cairo last week of Herbert Norman, Canadian ambassador to Egypt, against whom the U.S. senate internal security sub-committee recently revived old allegations of past Communist associations.

The note said Canada has more than once complained of the methods employed by the sub-committee in releasing names of Canadians, which they gave out, covering allegations going back years.

Eisenhower Blames U.S. Senate Probe

WASHINGTON (CP)—The Eisenhower administration today formally blamed the U.S. Senate internal sub-committee for airing charges of Communist ties made against Canadian diplomat E. Herbert Norman.

It did so in a note handed today to Canadian Ambassador Arnold Heeney. The state department made the note public.

The note, signed by Acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, said the U.S. government "deplores any development from any source either American or Canadian which might adversely affect" traditional friendship of the two countries.

President Eisenhower had taken a similar line at his press conference a few hours earlier. He said he hopes the controversy can be dropped and the fine, firm character of relations with Canada restored.

Herter said in the note to Canada:

"I wish to assure you that any derogatory information developed during hearings of the sub-committee was introduced into the record by the sub-committee on its own responsibility."

The state department also made public the text of the formal Canadian protest made March 18 about publication of the accusations.

Former Victorian Drowned at Kamloops

A former Victorian was one of three men whose bodies were found today in Kamloops Lake.

Dead are H. Keary De Beck, son of legislature clerk E. K. (Ned) De Beck and assistant district agriculturalist with the B.C. Forest Service; Wilbur A. Minion, land inspector with the service, and John Marini.

All three men lived in Kamloops. Dr. C. D. Orchard, chief forester, said the three men set out Tuesday morning in an outboard motorboat from Cherry Lodge on the south side of Kamloops Lake.

They intended to cross the lake to carry out some work on the other shore. A search was started Tuesday night when they failed to return home.

The overturned boat was found this morning and RCMP recovered the bodies at noon.

Anti-Sub Ships Best In World

By VINCENT J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Evaluation trials of the St. Laurent carried out during the past year proved conclusively that the anti-submarine requirements of this class of vessel have been met and in certain instances exceeded, it was reported in the Commons today by Hon. Ralph Campney.

"There is good reason to believe that, taking into account all factors, including the effect of a high standard of habitability on the fighting efficiency of the ship's company, we now have the most advanced type of anti-submarine vessel in service in any navy," the defence chief said.

HMCS St. Laurent is the same type as HMCS Skeena, just commissioned here, and HMCS Fraser, now being completed at Yarrow's Ltd.

Cabinet Shuffle Faces PM

Hon. Roch Pinard, secretary of state and Hon. George Prudham, minister of mines are reported to have tendered their resignations to Mr. St. Laurent.

Mr. Prudham may go to the Senate while Mr. Pinard is said to be anxious to return to private life. It is understood that Lionel Cheyrier, head of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority will be rejoining the cabinet.

Oil Firm's Bid For Saanich Land To Be Considered

Imperial Oil Ltd. has offered Saanich $4,000 for a tiny tip of Memorial Gore at Shelbourne and Cedar Hill Crossroads, but even this is $11,000 below the asking price.

Council was informed Monday the oil company, which wants the property to permit construction of a service station, has drawn up a nine-point proposal including $400 forthwith in consideration of a deal, an option to complete the deal by July 4 and provision for widening of Cedar Hill in the future.

Property must be rezoned to commercial, Cottonwood Street closed and the option free of encumbrances, according to the proposal.

It was referred to the finance committee for recommendation.

WINNIE'S FORMULA

Drinking, Eating, Sleeping

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill tonight gave the secret of his good health at 81 after severe illness and a momentous life.

"A lot of drinking, a lot of eating and eight or nine hours of sleep, most of it in the daytime."

The former prime minister told this to Dr. Masatoshi Matsushita of Japan who called on him tonight.

The Japanese university president said he found Churchill "looking good, though a little hard of hearing."

Winnipeg Doctor, Wife Charged Following Brawl

WINNIPEG—Dr. Dennis Harmer and his wife Kathleen have been charged with assault after a weekend brawl in a rooming house in which the landlady, three policemen and a police matron were injured. Dr. Harmer was the man arrested in rural Manitoba three years ago and hauled to Winnipeg to pay $73.20 for a $2 parking ticket he'd been trying to settle for weeks.

'A BIT THICK'

Scurrah Rocked By Nanaimo Bid for Grant

Nanaimo Tourist and Publicity Bureau staggered Mayor Percy Scurrah today with a request for a $1,500 operational grant from the city of Victoria.

"That is a bit thick," commented the mayor.

The bureau wrote that it directs 60 per cent of incoming tourists to Victoria, and also handles out Victoria tourist publicity.

Alberni, Port Alberni and Campbell River contribute to the Nanaimo Bureau. It felt Victoria should contribute 10 per cent of its annual budget.

"We've been handling the up-Island publicity for 40 years and we've never asked them for a cent," added Mayor Scurrah.

The letter goes before council Thursday.

PROVINCE ASKED TO FINANCE SEARCH

Ontario Beauty Could Be Honey To Lure Sasquatch from Hiding

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS (CP)—A young lady, unmarried too, is interested in British Columbia's proposed Sasquatch hunt.

The legendary giants are supposed to inhabit the mountains around this resort area, 80 miles northeast of Vancouver. A young Swiss mountaineer, convinced of the creatures' existence, wants to lead a hunt as part of B.C.'s centennial celebrations next year.

The Harrison Hot Springs centennial committee decided Tuesday night to file formal application for the search with provincial authorities.

And they also considered a letter from Peggy Sloan, 21, of Virginiatown, Ont., 22 miles east of Kirkland Lake near the Quebec border.

Miss Sloan wrote that she is "fascinated" by what she's read in the papers so far about the Sasquatch and wants to hear more from Rene Dahinden, 26, who proposes the search.

Paul Trout, a member of the Harrison committee, commented:

"It's pretty rugged country where the hunt will be taking place, but maybe if there was a girl in the party the Sasquatch might be more likely to come out of hiding."

merce in this Yukon city voted to put this resolution on record Monday night:

"Sasquatch, come home. All is forgiven."

The Jaycees say a Sasquatch would pass unnoticed in this territory because "the Yukon way of life allows for individual differences and personal character development." The Sasquatch "might well become a lovable part of our community life."

"There's just one problem about the Jaycees' new interest: What do Sasquatch like to eat besides people?"

Many Problems Lie Ahead For Seaway Administrators

... NORMAN

Continued from Page 1 and dealt with by this government years ago, was secured from other than Canadian sources," Pearson said.

"Nevertheless," he added, "this experience has emphasized that we should now take steps to ensure that information received from us on these matters could not possibly be used for wrong purposes against Canadians in the future."

The note sent to Washington, which said it was raising "a matter of the most urgent importance," said:

"As the United States government knows, the Canadian government finds the procedures actually adopted by the sub-committee with respect to Canadians difficult to understand, unfair and indeed intolerable."

"The Canadian government therefore requests again that these procedures be altered insofar as Canadians are concerned along the lines indicated above."

The note said the Canadian government had "a duty to protect Canadian citizens by all means legally at its disposal from unwarranted interference by any foreign government."

It added: "There is little that the Canadian government can do, however, to make this protection effective for those Canadian citizens, whose names are made public by congressional committees, unless it is able to secure the co-operation of the United States government."

"The United States government is aware that the appropriate security agencies of the two governments have in the past exchanged security information on a reciprocal basis when such information formed part of an investigation important to the security of either country."

PRECAUTIONS

"This reciprocal exchange of information has assisted substantially in maintaining the security of our two countries, and the Canadian government is not suggesting that it has been improperly used by the security agencies in the United States with which this exchange takes place."

"Nevertheless the Canadian government must take every precaution which lies within its power to protect Canadian citizens from the danger of this information falling into the hands of persons who might use it without any sense of responsibility or fairness, or regard for the rights of Canadian citizens, within the jurisdiction of Canada."

"The Canadian government for its part assures the United States government that any security information on United States citizens supplied by United States agencies to the security agency of the Canadian government, will be given similar protection in Canada to that requested with respect to security information about Canadians from the United States government."

... CANADA

Continued from Page 1 off shore has given an increased significance to the anti-submarine role of the maritime forces of NATO countries as a further essential element of the war deterrent.

"In this connection Canada is one of the principal countries providing maritime forces for the Supreme Allied Commander, Atlantic. The primary role of the Royal Canadian Navy has for some years been anti-submarine warfare in all its aspects."

"The latest appraisals of the threat at sea have resulted in a new emphasis by the RCN and the RCAF's maritime command on the development of forward operational systems and new techniques for locating and dealing with hostile submarines well away from our shores."

The report lists some of the steps taken to counteract this menace:

1. A four-year program to modernize radar equipment in major RCN ships is nearing completion but research must be continued in this field.

"2. Production will be started in the near future" in Canada of the new air-to-water homing torpedo.

3. The RCAF's new maritime patrol aircraft, the Argus, will begin flying operations this fiscal year.

4. An air navigation and tactical control system known as ANTAC, a unique Canadian development, has been tested and adapted for installation in the Argus.

5. The new aircraft carrier Bonaventure soon will join the Atlantic fleet at Halifax.

6. Deliveries of the Tracker, the navy's new anti-submarine aircraft, began in the latter part of 1956.

7. Successful experiments have been carried out in flying sub-spotting helicopters from a platform on a frigate.

On nuclear weapons, the report says the defence department has not tried to carry out original research in this field though close attention is given to such developments in Allied countries.

For the first time, the strength of the Canadian Rangers is revealed. At the end of last year, this shadowy band of trackers and woodsmen in remote areas of Canada numbered 2,725.

PROJECTS

"Crews are moving in on the Dallas-Douglas intersection Thursday. Friday morning they will start on the Dallas project between Cook and Douglas."

New parking bays, new curbs and gutters and resurfacing constitutes the work here.

"Surveying is now underway for the new road across Beacon Hill Park," the engineer added.

It's completion, one of the main recommendations of the Faustman traffic report, will mean removal of two private dwellings. One fronts on Heywood and the other on Vancouver and they are back to back.

Once their removal is negotiated the new road will run from the east end of Superior, winding southeasterly through an undeveloped fringe of the park to join with Heywood at a point where a park road intersects. Heywood will then be joined with a short extension of Southgate, which is the section now blocked by the two homes.

Mr. Garnett felt final paving might be finished this fall.

He estimated its completion will take 30 per cent of the government employee traffic off Douglas and Government and allow freer access to the Buildings for persons living east of Cook Street.

The Dallas Road projects will complete a beautification job started two years ago under jurisdiction of the now-defunct Capital City Beautification Grant Committee. Last year, the first and only grant by the CIDC was $75,000 toward the same project.

IMPROVE PARKS

City parks administrator Herbert Warren welcomed the planned new road across Beacon Hill Park.

"I think it will improve the park. I've been hoping it would come for 20 years."

He felt the new road eventually would be the main access to the park and would be joined by one of the roads now threading the park.

Reeve Fred Norris said he was pleased with the announcement on the Willows Beach esplanade.

"It would have been a long time before the municipality could have done it," he said.

Plans submitted to the Commission by the municipality had included improvements to Willows Park, but the government apparently feels parks should be the responsibility of local governments, Mr. Norris said.

The esplanade will run in front of the park along the waterfront.

"This is the second of eight reports of progress on construction of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project, by Canadian Press staff writer Robert Rice. The third will appear Thursday."

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Many uncertainties must be cleared before the St. Lawrence seaway opens its locks to the world 24 months from now.

A "pay-as-you-go" operation, the international waterway must charge tolls to write off its cost in 50 years. But what the charges will be—or, for that matter, how they will be levied—is still being negotiated by Canadian and United States toll committees.

Other major problems include mounting construction costs, the size of ships to be permitted to use the seaway, the question of bridge tolls, and harbor facilities at inland ports.

The future of Lionel Chevrier, president of Canada's St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, is said to be in the air. Political observers mention him for a cabinet post and say he may seek election in a Quebec constituency.

BILLION-DOLLAR SCHEME

The seaway and its affiliated power development in the International Rapids section west of Cornwall, Ont., now is expected to cost about $1,000,000,000. The authority's share, estimated four years ago at an outside $300,000,000, may climb to $350,000,000 before the project is completed. Its American counterpart, St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp., is said to need another $35,000,000 on top of an already-approved $105,000,000.

At Cornwall, the New York state power authority and Ontario Hydro share the estimated $600,000,000 cost of building a 2,300,000-horse-power generating complex.

The inflated estimates complicate toll planning. But the issue is even more snarled by differing views held by Canada and the United States. Further discussions on the problems began in Washington last month.

Canada is said to want low tolls so that foreign shipping will find profitable the seaway route into the Great Lakes. Foreign ships will earn dollars for their countries, which in turn could be spent on Canadian goods. The Americans, with the Great Lakes-Europe route subsidized, are said to prefer higher tolls to protect their shipping.

If a compromise is not reached, there could be two separate toll systems—a low rate through Canadian locks and a higher one through American locks.

USE BIG FACTOR

Tied to the 50-year limit on amortizing costs, the toll structure will depend largely on how much shipping uses the seaway. Estimates range around 30,000,000 tons a year during first year of operation. By 1965, it is expected to equal if not exceed that of the Panama Canal, now nearing 40,000,000 tons a year.

Tolls could be levied on tonnage, or commodities, or both. They could be a flat amount, or scaled to how far a ship sails up the seaway route. Largely unsettled, these issues leave room for further differences between the two countries.

Ottawa Offer Called Solution To Columbia Hydro Financing

COMOX—The federal government's offer to back the public development of Columbia River hydro can overcome the present financing problem, a top official of the B.C. Power Commission said here Tuesday night.

C. W. Nash, director of load development, said the total investment, of which a $300,000,000 dam at Mica Creek, near Revelstoke, is the first step, is "relatively heavy for the present population and economy of this province."

Interest rates on money borrowed to finance hydro projects is an important factor in the ultimate cost of power, Mr. Nash told the Comox District Canadian Club.

The federal government can obtain money 15 per cent cheaper than the province, and as much as 30 per cent cheaper than private borrowings.

"This greatly enhances the benefits that can be obtained under public financing..." Mr. Nash said.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—When Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smiths found 20 headache pills missing from a bottle, they figured one of their 18-month-old twin sons had gobbled the tablets—but which?

To be on the safe side, they hurried both Randall and Russell off to hospital.

And a good idea it was, as things came out. A stomach pump produced pills from both boys.

Everyone in the province would benefit from development of Columbia hydro.

"The Columbia River, as a natural and national resource, can be considered just as much the property of you people in the Comox Valley as of anyone else in the province."

Many areas will be connected to Mica Creek by a transmission-line grid, but they do not all have to be physically connected to benefit.

Under the B.C. Power Act, which governs the commission's financial benefits of hydro development can be given to all areas through pooling of power costs.

When will the Columbia River be developed?

"The answer to this depends upon engineering and upon this province's decision as to how it shall be done," Mr. Nash said.

"The need is urgent and time is running out."

Queen Greet Scottish Hero Of War Fame

PARIS (Reuters)—The weather took a turn for the worse today as Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip embarked on the third full day of a state visit to Paris.

The Queen wore an elegant white-edged black overcoat over her white silk dress to keep out the cold wind as she drove out of the presidential Elysee Palace and through the fashionable Rue du Faubourg St. Honoré to the British Embassy.

Thousands of persons who lined the streets also wore overcoats. At the embassy the Queen met deputations of the 7,000 Britons living in Paris. She had lunch with Foreign Minister Christian Pineau.

She also met the Tartan Pimpernel of Paris—a 55-year-old Scottish minister, Dr. Donald Caskie, who helped British soldiers during the war to escape from their German captors.

The meeting was arranged when the Queen agreed to lay a foundation stone, brought to Paris from the Island of Iona, where Christianity was introduced in Scotland, for a new Scottish church in the heart of Paris.

The day will end with a state banquet and French government reception tonight in the Louvre, former palace of French kings and now a renowned art museum. In today's British embassy reception the Queen caused some laughter when she was taken aside and presented to a group with the words "this is the press."

"Oh," she replied. The journalists laughed. So did the Queen.

(From CP and UP Dispatches)

PARIS—One million persons—almost half the population of Paris—flocked Tuesday night to the banks of the Seine to watch Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip sail past in a royal white launch.

At one point the Queen was so obviously thrilled by the pageantry and the crowds along the river that she lifted her hand in a Churchill V for victory sign.

As the vessel circled the two islands which form the heart of the city, 5,000 searchlights turned the pageant route into a brilliant path of color.

Unfolded was a display of French life. In the background, the 985-foot-high Eiffel Tower, flying the British and French flags, was floodlighted against the velvety blue sky.

At Notre Dame, where soft light streamed through stained-glass windows, hundreds of white-robed choirboys sang a medieval chant.

Historic Events Recalled by Pageant

In front of the Palace of the Legion of Honor, 150 grenadiers in Napoleonic uniform marched and wheeled. At the Quai des Tuileries, soldiers in the uniforms of long-gone French kings lowered the standards of the 17th and 18th centuries.

At the Quai Du Louvre 35 cavalymen stood in uniforms of the army of Louis XV, who lost the Seven Years' War (the French and Indian war) to the British.

An hour before the show started, traffic in the huge Place de la Concorde was at a standstill. Pedestrians were forced to climb over car hoods, with scenes from French history as When the presidential yacht reached Notre Dame, the floodlights were put out for several seconds while the historic cathedral's organs boomed out. As if on signal, the huge crowd lining the river surged forward, bursting through police barriers and invading the already-jammed bridges.

The launch, the Borde Freny, was built by Seine ship-owners because on Elizabeth's last visit to Paris, during her 1948 honeymoon, the city found it did not have a craft imposing enough for royal visitors. The launch was followed by a flotilla of small craft decked out with flags and bunting. The sides of the river were lined with open-air theatres, with actors and actresses depicting scenes from French history as the Queen passed by.

The Queen wore a slender gown of silver lace over silver lame fabric, embroidered with diamonds and crystals. Her jewels were all diamonds. Over the dress, she wore a matching stole of embroidered lace lavishly bordered with white fox. The only blaze of deep color was the sash of the Legion of Honor which cut a diagonal bright red streak across her dress.

GIFTS FOR HER CHILDREN are viewed by Queen Elizabeth during reception by city of Paris at Hotel de Ville (city hall). Dolls were presented for Princess Anne and a working model of Paris subway for Prince Charles. French President Rene Coty is on left. — (AP wirephoto by radio from Paris)
